INTRODUCTION

It is probably true that any attempt to record one's ancestry is a task that is never finished. Mindful of this probability, the transcript of data collected and recorded herewith is acknowledged to be incomplete in several respects and it is hoped that those who may be interested, at some future date, may find pleasure and enjoyment in working out the unfinished area.

I am quite aware of the limitations of my literary ability and therefore the reader will find the facts usually recorded without the embellishment of related historical matter, family or local episodes, folklore, or other collateral material.

The undertaking contemplates tracing each family line back to the first immigrant in this country. No attempt has been made to record data prior thereto, although in several cases it has been available.

The family name of Lash is an unusual one. There was a Nicholas Lash on the coast of Maine in 1665 who was probably the one in Boston in 1679 who kept a boat yard on Lynn Street, now Commercial Street. It seems possible that this family name may have influenced the anglicizing of the name of our first ancestor in this country.

Also a Robert Lash, who, at Pemaquid in 1735, acquired a lot of land in Warren, Maine and afterward settled there but was driven out by Indians.

The figures which appear in the left margin of most pages represent the generation, in this country, to which the respective individual belongs.

1 CASIMIR LASH - born _____, died 1757.

Our first ancestor of this name seems to have been Casimir Lash, who settled in Waldoboro, Maine. No exact date of his settlement seems to be available but was probably not earlier than the year 1751. He was killed by the Indians May 27, 1757.

The Maine Historical Society Collections, Second Series, Volume XIII, page 71, contains a report, dated May 28, 1757, by Capt. C. C. Leissner, who was in charge of the military post at Waldoboro, to his superior, Sir William Pepperell. The second paragraph of this report reads as follows:

> "Yesterday in the morning about 9 of ye clock, one Cassemir Losh, an inhabitant of this place, being at his Farm at Work, close by a Garrison, was shot by the Indians, whereupon Larm was fired; I went immediately with Fifteen Men in the Woods, and took around to the place where the Damage was done, we found the body laying a burning, with the Hatchet Sticking fast in his skull, he was shot under the right arm, and Stabbed with a knife in a most barbarous manner, his Wife being at the time the Murder was done, at the House and Saved her self by flying to the Garrison."

It will be noted that the name is spelled "Losh" in the above account, this is only one of several ways used, but it was early anglicized to Lash.

The excellent "History of Old Broad Bay and Waldoboro" (1953), by Jasper J. Stahl, indicates that Casimir Lash lived on the east side of the river, on the road now leading to Friendship.

Children of Casimir Lash and wife were:

Asmus (Erasmus)
John	born 1745	died 1825
Paul	born 1751	died 1826
Jacob

2 PAUL LASH (Casimir) - born 1751 died 1826

As to the life of Paul Lash, little has as yet been found. In the Lincoln County Register of Deeds, Vol. 13, page 49, will be found a transfer of land by Aresmos (also spelled Arsamos and Arasames in the same deed), to Jacob and Paul. This deed states, "land decended to me by decease of my father Casemir Lash and all part that may fall to me by death of my mother", signed February 13, 1775. Also Vol. 62, page 131, Paul sold land to Benjamin Brown, Physician, August 14, 1805. His wife Mary also signing.

From papers found in the effects of the late Augustus F. Lash, Jr. (my father's half brother) of Dorchester, it appears that Paul married Mary Cramer (Crammer) daughter of Peter and Katherine (Kaler) Cramer.

Paul Lash died February 13, 1826 and is buried in the old German Church cemetery in Waldoboro, Maine, as is also his wife Mary who died March 13, 1850. Their children were:

Catherine	b 1778	d	7/20/1856

3 AUGUSTUS F. LASH (Paul, Casimir) - born 1801 died 1847

Augustus F. Lash, born in Waldoboro, Maine, in 1801, married first Julia A. Myrick, March 9, 1830, daughter of Doctor Josiah Myrick of Newcastle, Maine, she died April 19, 1836, age 35, by whom the following children were born

Augustus F. Jr. b d m Bridget A. Hennesey
Helen Arletta b 1834 d 1842
Josiah Myrick b 1832 d 1837
Julia A. infant d 1836

He married second Abigail (Glidden) Melchor, widow of Capt. William Melchor. She was the daughter of Joseph and Mary (Waters) Glidden of Newcastle. They were married November 28, 1836. Their children were:

William M. b Oct. 18, 1839 d at sea age 15
Joseph Glidden b Oct. 20, 1842 d Dec. 29, 1913 at Lynn

His home in Newcastle was opposite the Congregational Church on the road leading south to Wiscasset. This land was a part of the farm of Doctor Josiah Myrick, the father of his first wife. He died August 23, 1847, age 46, and is buried in the cemetery on the hill west of his house. His widow, Abigail, continued to live in the home until her death July 21, 1880, at which time the property was sold.

As Augustus F. Lash died when my father was only five years old, there has been little information passed down through the family as to his activity.

The genealogy of the Ludwig family, page 136, gives the following, probably an account of the fact that he was born in Waldoboro and there were several Lash-Ludwig marriages recorded:

> "Augustus F. Lash received his preparatory education at Bloomfield Academy, and from private teachers, and graduated at Bowdoin College in the class of 1829, and died in 1847. He took charge of Lincoln Academy immediately on leaving the college and devoted himself exclusively to teaching. He was a young man of strong mind and much energy of character, and while in college excelled in the department of mathematics."

From the History of Bowdoin College, page 396, we obtain the following:

> "Augustus F. Lash was a large, dark complexioned, heavy browed, deep voiced, masculine fellow, whose generous good nature made him very acceptable to his classmates. He was a pious man and a good scholar, excelling in mathematics. For eight years after he left college, he was principal of the Newcastle Academy with good repute as a teacher and disciplinarian. He afterward engaged in trade, still living in Newcastle where he died in 1847. He married in 1830 Miss Julia Myrick and a second time Abigail Melchor, November 28, 1836."

It so happened that there was a Bloomfield Academy at Bloomfield, N. J., and also one at Skowhegan, Maine, both of which were in operation during the years that Augustus F. Lash would have been interested. The early records of neither of these schools have been preserved. It seems reasonable that the Skowhegan Bloomfield Academy is the one most likely to have been his alma mater. The earliest records found at History House in Skowhegan are not early enough to include a class in which he may have been enrolled.

A letter dated March 14, 1935, by the late Hugh McLellan Lewis, Reference Librarian at Bowdoin College follows:

> "He is entered in the college catalogue of February 1826 among the Freshmen as Augustus F. Lash of Waldoboro and together with Jacob Mitchell of North Yarmouth occupied No. 19 Maine Hall. Sophomore year he roomed with George Coffin of Newburyport, Mass. in No 18 North College (now Winthrop Hall). Junior year he and Joseph C. Lovejoy of Albion had room No. 16 North College and Senior year he had the same room and room mate.
> "His commencement came on September 2, 1829 and he took part on that occasion in a Deliberative Discussion "Public Scientific Expeditions" with Dudley Perkins Bailey of North Yarmouth and Thomas Manning of New Gloucester.
> "Mr. Lash was a member of the Peucinian Society, a literary society among whose members were Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Sargent S. Prentice. He evidently took the regular course of studies with special emphasis on the classics."

Upon his graduation from Bowdoin, September 2, 1829, the following paper was presented:

SUBJECT: "THE INFLUENCE OF PUBLIC SCIENTIFIC ENTERPRISES ON THE SCIENCES IN GENERAL"

> "In every age public scientific enterprises have had a great influence in promoting human happiness, strengthening the cords of society and diffusing a charm over the works of nature. But they have contributed no less to the improvement of knowledge than to the prosperity of a people. Literature and science lay the broad foundation of moral improvement. Every branch of human knowledge swells, more or less, the fountain, whose streams convey to the human mind the rich luxuries. National liberties are identified with the advancement of science, she is the guardian of our unequalled privileges. But can she exist in full energy unless cherished by the spirit of enterprise? Will not the philosopher shrink into retirement, geography lose its beauties, and history cease to delight, when materials are no longer drawn from the treasures of nature? Had not the court of Castile and Leon listened to the voice of importunity, the vast continent of the west, which was announced by the discoverer to his enraptured patrons, as the New World, might to this day have had no place in the pages of history. This single event, if we may allude to the argument of Columbus, restored the equilibrium of the earth. Here history acquired a fact, which has never ceased to excite interest. This inspired philosophy with new energy. This was the commencement of an ear, when the mantle with which nature is wont to shroud savage dominion was drawn aside. The warwhoops expired, idols prostrated themselves; and where once an uninterrupted wild covered the banks of the Atlantic, cities are now seen towering with temples inscribed to the living God. That interesting group of Islands which chequer the bosom of the Pacific emerged at the voice of public enterprise.

"Literature in her various departments, has had her resources enlarged by the modern expeditions of Europe. Many of those, we know, were prosecuted from a religious zeal to propagate some faith, or from the all-powerful impulse of the "auri sacra fames"; still many were influenced by a liberal spirit of inquiry and with a view to the extension of human knowledge.

"Ancient history is indebted for its embellishment to the enterprises of the Phonecians, Greeks and Romans. The first adventure beyond the pillars of Hercules prepared the way for fuller investigation of the earth, and led to many of those discoveries which now propel the wheels of the scientific and commercial world. In vain do we look to the cabinet and study, for the substance of science, unless the philosopher be aided by the spirit of enterprise. The present imposing aspect of the sciences, and the principles which constitute the elements of literature are almost all drawn exclusively from the adventure of past ages. It was these that enabled the intelligent eye to recognize the phenomena of nature in her various operations and laws and then reduce them to system.

"It appears peculiarly befitting a nation like ours to embrace every chance for improving geographical knowledge and enlarging the basis of natural science.

"To public enterprise we are all indebted for the ornaments of history; the enlarged charts of geography; the truth and reason which now invest philosophical investigations. While such is the issue, how important it is to avail ourselves of the treasures of wisdom which the Divine Original has placed within the sphere of human enterprise."

Augustus F. Lash also presented several other papers which are on file at Bowdoin College. In his junior year, 1828, a paper entitled, "Territorial Right of the Indian", was presented, probably in debate.

The Legislature of the State of Georgia was considering a proposal to move the Cherokee Indians to a western reservation. He builds a strong case in defense of the Indian, enumerating the crimes of the white man as contrasted with the inherent honesty and high standards of the Indian, and now to take their land away seems to be a dramatic climax. To quote a part of this paper, an idea is obtained of its force:

"Shall we suffer the reputation of our Republic to be immolated by a deed so foul? Shall this almost expiring tribe, adorned as they now are by the glories of our religion, and charmed by the excellences of our government be forced to relinquish land purchased with their fathers blood and emigrate into the unknown wilds of the west?"

After reading this strongly worded and scholarly document in defense of the Indian and realizing that its author's grandfather, Casimir, was murdered by Indians only seventy-one years prior thereto, one is impressed with the factual aspects of his argument and the high standards reflected therein.

While he was still a Junior on May 20, 1828, a printed program of a public Exhibition contains the following:

4 JOSEPH GLIDDEN LASH (Augustus F., Paul, Casimir), was born in Newcastle, Maine, October 20, 1842, the son of Augustus F. and Abbie Glidden Lash.

He was but five years of age when his father died and probably on this account his education was somewhat limited. At an early age he was a clerk in the store of Isaac Gentner. On September 10, 1862, he enlisted in the 21st Main Volunteers, was in the telegraph corps and among those who volunteered to form a storming party, which was the first assault on Port Hudson on the lower Mississippi River, May 27, 1863. In this engagement he was wounded in the right leg and sent to the hospital in New Orleans until ordered home for discharge.

After his recovery, he went to western Pennsylvania where he was engaged in drilling oil wells. On his return to Maine he married, August 16, 1867, Abbie F. Chapman, the oldest daughter of David Weeks and Martha (Ayer) Chapman, of Damariscotta, Maine.

After his marriage he was employed by Warren Brothers of Hunters Point, L.I., whose plant became destroyed by fire, whereupon he again returned to Maine. He was the first station agent of the Knox and Lincoln Railroad at the Newcastle-Damariscotta station.

He moved to North Adams, Mass., about the year 1873, before the completion of the Hoosac Tunnel, where his two youngest children were born. In 1894 he removed to Lynn, Mass., and died there December 29, 1913.

His children were:

Martha Bell	born Long Island City, Sept. 1, 1868 died age 8 at North
Frederick A.	born Newcastle 1870 died 1933 Unmarried
David Chapman	born North Adams, Nov. 25, 1878
Mary Haines	born North Adams, Nov. 22, 1880

5 DAVID CHAPMAN LASH (Joseph G., Augustus F., Paul, Casimir), was born November 25, 1878 at North Adams, Mass.

After his graduation from grammar school, his parents moved to Lynn, Mass., and he entered Salem Commercial School, graduating in 1896.

He took up accounting and after two years in Boston, on May 2, 1898, was employed in the office of the Lynn Plant of the General Electric Company. From 1909 to 1919, he had charge of the Cost and Estimating Department, in addition to other responsibilities on the Manager's staff. His home was in Swampscott during this period.

From January 1, 1919, he devoted his efforts to the management and finance of several industrial companies for Boston financial interests, and for ten years was successively a trustee of two holding companies of the New England Electric System.

The last twelve years of his active business life he devoted to Sub-contract management for the General Electric Company, and then for Whitin Machine Works at Whitinsville, Mass., where he resided. In mid-1953 he retired and moved to Beverly, Mass.

In 1903 he married C. Emma Shrives, born 1879, daughter of George and Hannah (Mathes) Shrives of Lynn, Mass.

Their children are as follows, all born in Swampscott, Mass.:

6 JOSEPHINE LASH (David C., Joseph G., Augustus F., Paul, Casimir), born September 3, 1907, in Swampscott, Mass., the oldest child and only daughter of David C. and Emma (Shrives) Lash.

She attended the Swampscott public schools, the Fitchburg, Mass. High School, from which she entered Boston University, School of Practical Arts and Letters, graduating the year 1929. October 14, 1933, she married Richard T. Lathrop, son of Thornton N. M. and Clara (Smith) Lathrop of New London, Connecticut.

Their children are:

7 Barbara Lathrop born July 30, 1935
Richard T. Lathrop, Jr. born Nov. 10, 1938

6 DAVID CHAPMAN LASH, JR. (David C., Joseph G., Augustus F., Paul, Casimir), born May 22, 1909 in Swampscott, Mass., the oldest son of David C. and Emma (Shrives) Lash.

He attended the Swampscott schools, and after three years at Fitchburg, Mass. High School, entered the Allen School at West Newton and graduated from Harvard in 1931. While employed by Sylvania Electric Products, in 1942, he enlisted in the Field Artillery, later transferred to the Infantry, as an Instructor, after the Battle of the Bulge.

His service was entirely in this country and he was commissioned Captain upon his discharge. Returning to civilian life, he went back to Sylvania Electric Products Company, where he has managerial responsibilities in the Sales Training Department of their Lighting Division.

After his discharge from the Army he lived in Essex, Mass., and in 1951 moved to Beverly and purchased the property at 234 Dodge Street.

September 14, 1943, in California, he married Helena Boucher, daughter of Henry J. and Emma (Chartier) Boucher of Lynn, Mass.

Their children are:

7 David Chapman Lash, 3rd born March 14, 1945
Peter Shrives Lash born March 16, 1949

6 ROBERT STETSON LASH (David C., Joseph G., Augustus F., Paul, Casimir), born September 11, 1917, in Swampscott, Mass.

After graduation from Swampscott High School, was employed by the Lynn Institution for Savings for five years. In 1940 he enlisted in the Army and while at France Field in Panama applied for Pilot's Training Course. This course, while interrupted by eleven months in the hospital, he successfully finished and was Chief Pilot of a B-17 bomber in the 8th Air Force stationed in England. He accomplished thirty-five missions over Germany and received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Congressional Award.

After a short period of civilian activity, he reenlisted when Korea trouble broke out. During this period he was stationed at Westover Field and later sent to Casablanca. Upon finishing his enlisted period, he again entered private life. His effort has been usually directed to the sales field. He lives in Orland, Maine, and is employed by WABI Broadcasting and TV station at Bangor, Maine.

He married Jane, the daughter of Arnold M. and Irene (Roberts) Wyman of Swampscott on November 10, 1950.

Their children are:

7 Jonathan Wyman Lash born September 29, 1951
Holly Merriam Lash born December 28, 1953

CRAMMER

This name, like many other names of the Waldoboro, Maine settlers, has been spelled several different ways, although Peter's name has rather consistently been spelled as above.

From Peter Crammer's gravestone, which is of white marble and in a good state of preservation, standing in the old German Church Burying Ground in Waldoboro, Maine, we learn that he died May 7, 1822, age 96. His wife Katherine, whose gravestone is also there, died June 10, 1801, age 74. From the above evidence it will be seen that Peter was born in 1726 and his wife Katherine in 1727. I have not determined the date of his arrival in this country.

He resided in Boston for some years and probably some of his children were born there, however, the surviving vital statistics of Boston are notoriously incomplete and no record has been found of the birth of any of his children.

The Boston Record Commissioner's Report, Vol. 29, page 286, states, that on October 24, 1766, Uriah Pake's Sloop "Success" arrived from N. S. Land and Louisbourgh and gives a list of passengers. The names of Peter Crammer (spelled evidently in error "Crumer") and William Brumigan, Traders, are shown at the bottom of the list. It seems reasonable to assume that this was not Peter's first arrival but rather was his return from a trading trip.

In this same report, page 318, Peter Crammer is listed as attending the South Writing School in the year 1768 and also Christopher Crammer who may have been a son or brother. Peter at this date was 42 years of age and his interest was no doubt a desire to learn to speak and write English.

The Massachusetts State Archives Department has a record of a petition to start a German Protestant Church in Boston. This is dated 1770 and one of the signers is Peter Crammer. No evidence seems to be available as to whether or not this petition was granted.

CRAMMER (Cont'd.)

The Boston Record Commissioner's Report, Vol. 29, page 322, indicates that he was still in Boston in 1775. At this time the Selectmen ordered all citizens to turn in all firearms to them and Peter Crammer is listed as having turned in one gun. The report does not disclose when these arms were returned to their respective owners.

Peter Crammer moved from Boston to Waldoboro, Maine, between 1775 and 1779. He purchased a property of considerable size and during his long life took an active interest in the affairs of the town and of the church. He appears to have contributed much to the development of the community.

2	Mary Crammer	married Paul Lash
3	Augustus F. Lash	married Abigail Glidden
4	Joseph G. Lash	married Abbie F. Chapman
5	David C. Lash	married C. Emma Shrives

KALER

Very little has been learned of this family except that the original settler was probably Johannes Kohler, and soon anglicized to Kaler.

Here again we are indebted to the records of Augustus F. Lash, Jr., of Dorchester, indicating that Katherine married Peter Crammer before they came to America, probably.

2	Katherine Kaler	married Peter Crammer
3	Mary Crammer	married Paul Lash
4	Augustus F. Lash	married Abigail Glidden
5	Joseph G. Lash	married Abbie F. Chapman
6	David C. Lash	married C. Emma Shrives

GLIDDEN

Notes from "Descendants of Charles Glidden", by George Walter Chamberlain, 1925.

1 Charles Glidden, born in parish of Buckland-Brewer, County of Devon, England, about 1632. He married in England April 7, 1658, Eunice Shore, daughter of Sampson and Abigail (Benson) Shore. She was their eldest child and born as early as 1640. Charles Glidden with his wife and child came to Boston, Mass., about 1660. Resided in Boston only temporarily. Removed to Portsmouth, New Hampshire, then called Strawberry Bank. Occupation, Blacksmith.

Between December 13, 1667 and September 29, 1668, sold his Portsmouth property and removed to Exeter, New Hampshire, settled in eastern part of town, later called New Market. Called planter. Applied for and was granted Innholder's license. Served as soldier in Exeter garrison 1696. Several references to legal documents, etc., call him Blacksmith.

Both Charles and his wife were living in 1707.

The Boston News Letter of September 14, 1719, carries the following obituary:

"Piscatagua - September 18, 1719

> "On Tuesday the eighth currant died at Exeter, Mrs. Elizabeth Gilman, late widow of the Honorable John Gilman Esq., in the 80th year of her age who was blessed with so numerous an issue, that of her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren she could raise two effective companies, with officers of all definition thereto belonging, even from a Major to Corporal, and a Minister besides to preach to them. She was a gentlewoman of rare accomplishments, well skilled in surgery, what she did therein was mostly gratis, charitable to the poor, one of meek, humble, and pleasant temper, but that which crowned all, she was a sincere lover of true religion."

Two of her daughters married men in our line of ancestry.

TREWORTHY (Treworgy)

N E H & G Register, Volume 5, page 346

1 Mr. James Treworgye was born early in 1614, probably earlier, as in 1635 he was entrusted with the purchase of a large tract of land, "extending half way from Piscatugua to Agamemticus river", as agent of his father in law, Mr. Alexander Shapleigh, who, according to the deposition of Mr. Edward Johnson, was also an agent of Sir Ferdinando Gorges; a trust not likely to be confided to a man of inexperience. In the Spring of 1642, Mr. Shapleigh conveyed the whole estate to him and subsequently he made it over to his brother-in-law, Nicholas Shapley, for £1500 sterling. Not long after this date, Mr. Treworgy, it is said, went to New Foundland, where he probably died. His daughter, Elizabeth, married John Gilman of Exeter.

WOODMAN

Notes from History of Durham, N. H.
by Stackpole
Volume 2 Page 392

1 "Edward Woodman, baptized in Corsham, Wiltshire, England, December 27, 1606, son of Edward and Olive (Mallott) Woodman, came over in the ship "James", embarking April 6 and arriving June 3rd, 1635. He settled in Newbury, Mass., and was one of the prominent men in the history of that town, representing it several times in the General Court. His wife's name was Joanna."

2 "Capt. John Woodman, son of the above named Edward Woodman, born 1630, married July 15, 1656, Mary, daughter of Darby Field of Oyster River Point. We may assume that he had been living at Oyster River before that date. He had a grant of land soon after, which is recorded in Dover Town Book. He here built his garrison on an elevated spot with commanding view, where it could be easily defended. The unsuccessful attack of 1694 was the proof of his wisdom. His first wife died July 6, 1698 and he married October 17, 1700, widow Sarah (Burnham) Luckins. He died September 17, 1706."

"Capt. John Woodman came from Newbury, Mass., as early as 1656. When the inhabitants of Oyster River petitioned to be made a separate parish, they sent John Woodman to represent them at the General Court. He was selectman of Dover seven years, moderator of the town meeting in 1675, justice of the peace, and deputy to the provincial assembly in 1684, when resistance was made to the oppression of Canfield. Upon the overthrow of Andros, a convention was called to form a government, and Capt. John Woodman's name appears at the head of the Dover delegation of six. This convention drew up a form of government, one branch of which was to be a council, and in January 1690, Mr. Woodman was chosen a member of this council. He was again provincial deputy from 1692 to 1696, 1703, to the time of his death 1706. He was also justice of the peace and a justice to the Court of Common Pleas, 1702-1706. He held a commission as Captain prior to 1690, which was renewed several times.

FIELD

1 Darby Field, called by Winthrop an "Irishman" (but born in England), came in 1636 to Boston, driven by religious and political persecution, and for a short time was with his brother Robert. He removed to Exeter, N. H. in 1638, to Dover, N. H. in 1648, here he died in 1649. Darby Field was the first European to ascend the White Mountains, when he did in 1642, in company with two Indians. The ascent occupying eighteen days, which he saw "more marvelous things than ever any one has seen since". He was one of the earliest signers of the "Exeter Combination", a compact made by a voluntary association, for governmental purposes, drawn up by their pastor and signed by thirty-five adult males of the settlement of Oyster River, bearing date of July 4, 1639.

Recent investigations by Colonel Chester have traced several signers of the "Exeter Combination" to Boston, England and adjoining parishes, and found that they were more or less related. A deed of April 3, 1638, to John Wheelwright, Edward Colcord, and Darby Field, of Piscutaquack; Samuel Hutchinson and Augustus Story, of Boston; John Compton, of Roxbury, and Nicholas Needham, of Mount Woolston, of all its rights, title and interest, from Merrimack to the patent of Piscutaquack, was made by Wehanowndwit (some thirty square miles). He had no share in the first division of the land, but was a subscriber to the confirmation.

That Darby Field was above the average, not only in courage and daring, but in intelligence and quickness to resent what he considered impertinence, may be seen from the following story: A famous Puritan Divine from Massachusetts was addressing the people of Dover, and reproving them for departing from the good habits of the Puritans, when Field arose and corrected the minister, saying, "We are a different race from them. Instead of coming here for religious purposes, the object of our ancestors was to lumber, fish and trade, and instead of departing from their good example, we have improved upon them." That he possessed more than ordinary intelligence, is shown in his account of his discovery of the "White Mountains" in 1642. (See account given by Winthrop, also history of Newcastle.)

He was living at Oyster River (Durham, N. H.) in 1644, where he was licensed to sell wine. This was no doubt at Durham Point. It is recorded that Darby Field, of

From Ancient Sheepscott and Newcastle (Maine)
by D. Q. Cushman, page 155

4 Samuel Waters came from England (author is in error in this statement as is very definitely proved by correspondence and by facts obtained from various sources), was a cooper by trade; purchased the head of Dyers Neck, from river to river and resided on it. The country was wild but his strong arm and determined will soon made a clearing and created him a home. He was a very pious man and did much toward sustaining religious ordinances among the people, and used frequently to have meetings in his own house,but like many good men, he had some peculiar notions and ways, which, at this time, seem a little singular. When his second wife died, a friend in sympathy remarked to him, "You have lost your wife, Mr. Waters." "Yes", he replied, "the loss of women and the increase of sheep will make a man rich." The last years of his life he spent in Jefferson and when the bass viol, just purchased, was brought into the house where he worshipped, he would leave it saying, "It is both base and vile". When asked, "Why", he said, "they could play both psalm tunes and dancing tunes upon it." He was a firm Presbyterian and used to go to Waldoboro to partake of the Communion. He was very benevolent; and when, in the spring of the year people used to come from Balltown to catch fish, he would entertain them free of charge. (This book states he married Mary Kennedy of Bridgewater. In this the author is in error as he married Jane Canedy (Kennedy).)

WHITON

History of Hingham, Mass., Vol. 3, p. 288

1 James Whiton, who was an inhabitant of Hingham as early as 1647, married December 30 of that year, Mary Beal, the second daughter of John and Nazereth (Hobart) Beal. She was born in Hingham, England, 1622 and died in our Hingham, December 12, 1696, age 74. James died April 26, 1710. "Farmer" Freeman 1660. Resided at "Liberty Plain", South Hingham. In his will dated September 29, 1708, he provides liberally for his children and grandchildren, mentions three sons and one daughter then living, also seven grandchildren, "Who are the issue of my son Thomas Whiton deceased". In this instrument his name is written "James Witon", although several of his children were baptized by the surname "Whiting". In 1657 he received a grant of land from the town, and at other dates lots of meadow and upland. He was one of the larger taxpayers of Hingham at the time the new meeting house was erected, 1681, and at his decease possessed much landed property in the neighboring towns of Scituate, Abington and Hancock as well as in Hingham. "April 20, 1676, the houses of Joseph Jones, Anthony Sprague, Israel Hobart, Nathaniel Chubuck and James Whiton were burned by the Indians." Children 9 in all. BEAL

History of Hingham, Mass., Vol. 2, p. 53

1 John Beal came from the parish of Hingham, County of Norfolk, England, to Hingham, Mass. Bay in 1638, and on the 18th of September of that year received a grant of land containing six acres on what is now South St., at or near the corner of Hersey St. Daniel Cushing, the fourth town clerk of our Hingham, made the following record concerning the arrival of John Beal, and his family, viz: "1638 John Beal, shoemaker, with his wife and five sons and three daughters and two servants, came from old Hingham and settled in New Hingham".

He was admitted to freeman in 1639 and in 1649 and 1659 was chosen to represent the town at the General Court of the Colony. His first wife, Nazareth Hobart, who was the mother of his children, was the daughter of Edmund and Margaret (Dewey) Hobart. She was born in England about 1600 and died in Hingham September 23, 1658. He died April 1, 1688.

Judge Sewell wrote under the same date, "Father Beal of Hingham dies, aged 100 years".

HOBART

History of Hingham, Vol. 3, p. 334

1 Edmund Hobart came from Hingham, County of Norfolk, England, baptized in the parish in 1570. Arrived at Charlestown 1633 and with son Thomas and several others came to "Bare Cove" the same year (see Lincoln History Hingham pp 41 & 156), probably for the purpose of establishing a new plantation or township. It is generally thought however, that he did not locate here permanently until the arrival of his son, the Rev. Peter Hobart, and those who came with him. He was one of the early settlers who drew their houselots on Town (North) St., on the 18 September 1635, Edmund's lot being number 17. His wife, Margaret Dewey, was the mother of his children. His

LINCOLN

History of Hingham, Mass., Vol. 2, p. 476

1 Stephen Lincoln and his wife and son Stephen came to New England in the ship "Diligent". They arrived August 10, 1638, and early in the autumn following, settled in our Hingham. They were from Windham, County of Norfolk, England. Land was granted to him upon his arrival. Margaret, the wife of Stephen, died in Hingham and was buried the 13th of June 1642. Stephen died October 11, 1658. In his will, made three days before his decease, he mentions, "my mother Joan Lincoln, son Stephen Lincoln, and Susana Lincoln, the daughter of my brother Thomas the husbandman". He provides for his mother "Joan", but leaves the principal part of his estate to Stephen, his only child then living.

CANEDY

Volume 1, page 208 & 209, Mayflower Descendants

1 "Elaxender" Cannedy and wife Elizabeth had following children. This does not mean that they were Mayflower passengers. The name elsewhere is given as Alexander Canedy.

	Sarah	b 11 November	1693
	Annabel	b 8 May	1698
	John	b 23 April	1703

Savage Vol.III page 10, confirms the above and adds, "The descendants are at Middleboro".

Middleboro History by Weston, page 434. After mentioning several family names of Middleboro, including Canedy, states,

> "There is a tradition which has always been regarded as true, that these families were of Scotch-Irish descent, and that, as protestants in the North of Ireland, they joined with William in the siege of Londonderry in the battle of Boyne in 1690."

Alexander Canedy, the first of the Canedy family, was the father of William Canedy, one of the eminent men of Middleboro in the early part of the eighteenth century. He served as Lieutenant against the Indians in Maine. The first land acquired by William Canedy in Middleboro was on December 2, 1717, from Nathan Rowland.

N. E. H. & G., Vol. 21, p. 348 states:

> "He owned a farm on the old Rhode Island road and kept a tavern."

No record of his first marriage has as yet (1956) been found, but when he was thirty-eight years of age, he married June 21, 1727, Elizabeth Eaton.

3 Thomas Canedy, son of William by earlier marriage, married Jane Gilmore, October 24, 1735.

GILMORE

According to data contained in American Genealogical Index, Volume 14, James Gilmore appears to be the immigrant ancestor of this family. He settled in the Bridgewater, Abington, Mass. area in 1693. No evidence has been found to permit recording his descendants to a point that would identify Jane Gilmore, who, in 1735, married Thomas Canedy.

The Archives Department at the State House in Boston has a record which states that John Gilmore lived in the "north part of the town" (Bridgewater), and on November 15, 1737/8 signed a petition on which also appears the signature of Thomas Canedy.

For the present purpose of our record, we will consider Jane Gilmore as the first generation.

CHAPMAN FAMILY

The following information has been gathered from various sources as a complete genealogy of our line has not been discovered.

The name Chapman comes from the Anglo-Saxon, Cheapman, which means a trader or merchant.

Most of those who came to New England in the seventeenth century, by the name of Chapman, came from the North-east part of England, from Yorkshire, Lincolnshire, etc.

1 Edward Chapman, miller and farmer, is said to have come from Yorkshire, England, not far from Hull. He is supposed to have come with the colony of Rev. Nathaniel Rogers, who landed in Boston in October 1638. In 1642 he married Mary, the daughter of Mark Symonds, the mother of his five children:

Simon
Nathaniel
Mary
Samuel
John

He was a grantee of Ipswich in 1644. For some years he lived on the farm of Rev. Nathaniel Rogers and during this time he invested his spare capital in the purchase of lands in the different parts of Ipswich, using not only his own funds, but the property left to his children by Mark Symonds, their grandfather. He believed that his children, with his aid, ought to support themselves until he could conveniently divide among them his own estate, together with what was left to them by their grandfather. All went apparently well until his son Nathaniel married Mary Wilborn, and then sued his father for the fifth part of the property left to the children of his mother, Mary (Symonds) Chapman. Then, by mutual consent, the question was left to Deacon Moses Pingry, Lyman Stacy of Ipswich, and Ezekiel Northend of Rowley, who divided the land into five equal parts, and Nathaniel Chapman chose his share according to his birth. But it seems that the other heirs left their shares in the care of their father. He was an industrious, energetic Christian, cautious, firm, and decided in his opinions. Edward Chapman died in Ipswich, April 18, 1678, his wife Mary (Symonds) Chapman died June 10, 1658.

2 Nathaniel Chapman, son of Edward and Mary (Symonds) Chapman, born 1645; married December 30, 1674 Mary Wilborn, daughter of Michael and Mercy (Beamsley) Wilborn. He resided in Ipswich. Children were:

Nathaniel
Michael
David
and two daughters

Summary of notes taken from Harriet (Chapman) Gay.

4 Anthony Chapman built a log cabin below the village of Damariscotta in 1750 (or 1749) near Brown's Cove. The only other settler was John Scott whose cabin was opposite the oyster banks. Then later he built a cabin farther up the river at a spot above the present cemetery, then in 1762 bought lands at back meadow from river to Muddy Pond and built a large house now (1957) standing. As years went by, he set off various parts to his family.

He was born September 9, 1713, married September 25, 1735 to Sarah Patch, daughter of Timothy and Elizabeth (Poland) Patch of Wenham.

7 David Weeks Chapman, son of Jacob and Jane (Chapman) Chapman, born in Back Meadow, April 20, 1819, attended Lincoln Academy at the time that my paternal grandfather, Augustus F. Lash, was the Preceptor. Family tradition says that he helped shingle the Academy when he was sixteen years old. He was bound out to Cyrus Cotter for a period of five years. He was taken into the family as if he were an older son. Upon the death of Cyrus Cotter, his affairs were left in David's hands. He later kept a ship chandlery store in partnership with Gilmore Houston under the firm name of Houston and Chapman. Upon the death of Houston, the business was closed out. He went into the dry goods business and took a heavy loss when the fire 1845 occurred. He was appointed as cashier of the Newcastle bank when it was established in 1849, and held this position for forty-five years. He was actively engaged in financing the ship building activity and at one time there were twenty-seven vessels in which the bank and others were interested. He acted as land agent when the vessels were at sea.

His interests were many, he represented the Hartford Insurance Company, and also the New York Life; he was a director of the Knox and Lincoln Railroad and also held an interest in the South Bristol Ice Company which shipped large quantities of ice south by water.

On February 18, 1844, he married Martha Ayer, daughter of William and Martha (Decker) Ayer of Alna, Maine.

LINCOLN

History of Hingham
Vol. 3, p. 15

1 Thomas Lincoln, styled the "husbandman" and brother of Stephen Lincoln, came from Wymondham, England, County of Norfolk, and settled in Hingham in the autumn of 1638. His name frequently occurs upon the early records of the town, and in every instance, he is distinguished from the other Thomases by his occupation. His conveyances and titles to property acquired, by grant or purchase, also afford evidence of his vocation in life. None of his descendants now live in Hingham bearing Lincoln name, but have removed to Worcester County, and State of Maine. Married Margaret, daughter of Richard Langer, she died Hingham March 5, 1693-4. He died August 16, 1692. In his will names wife and eight children. He was a farmer. Resided on Fort Hill Street on the highway side going to Weymouth mill.

2 Joshua Lincoln, son of Thomas b Hingham, May 3, 1645, m Deborah Hobart, daughter of Joshua Hobart, April 20, 1666. She was baptized in Hingham, September 12, 1647 and died November 29, 1684, age 37. He died April 21, 1694, aged 49. He was a carpenter, in 1672 Constable, in 1682 and 1691 Selectman. Resided on Ft. Hill Street. He had ten children, of whom Solomon was the 9th born, November 25, 1682.

Vital Records - Scituate, Mass.

3 Solomon Lincoln married Hannah Stetson, April 25, 1705. Hannah Lincoln, wife of Solomon, died September 18, 1740.

4 Isaac Lincoln, son of Solomon and Hannah, born February 28, 1713-14, married Abigail Mellus December 21, 1738.

5 Sarah Lincoln, daughter of Isaac and Abigail Lincoln, born June 15, 1744, married Deacon Nathaniel Chapman 1768 at Bristol, Maine.

STETSON

From Dean's History of Scituate
p. 340

1 Cornet Robert Stetson received grant of a considerable tract of land in 1634, from the Colony Court, on the North River, which constituted his farm. His house was on a beautiful plain near the river. An unfailing spring, out of which eight generations of the family have been supplied, marks the spot. Cornet Rocks in the river east of his farm, are well known to those who navigate the river. He was possessed of considerable wealth, an enterprising and valuable man in the plantation, a deputy to court, a cornet of the first light horse corps raised in the colony, a member of the council of war, a colony commissioner, - in short, he lived long and left a good name at last. He died February 1, 1702, aged 90.

WRIGHT

N. E. H. & G. Register, Vol. 31
p. 307 and 308

1 Richard Wright came from England, probably in 1631, in Col. John Humphrey's employ. Settled in Saugus (now Lynn). His daughter Abigail, who became wife and widow successively of Robert Sharpe, Thomas Clapp, and William Holbrook, made deposition November 4, 1701, in which she stated her age as 78 and said that she was about 8 years old when she came to this country with her father Richard Wright. He was afterward of Braintree, Mass. His wife's name was Margaret.

The "History of Braintree" by Pattee contains much information about Richard Wright from 1635 on. He was one of a committee to determine bounds for certain important land grants before the town was incorporated. After the town was incorporated in 1640, he was one of three of the first magistrates. He had a grant of land and started a water mill in 1639, which he sold to Thomas Dudley for the price of five cows.

VINAL

"Early Planters of Scituate"
by Pratt

1 Ann Vinal, widow, with her children Martha, Stephen and John, came to Scituate from England in 1636. She had but recently been bereaved, through the loss of her husband, and possessed a comfortable competence, much thrift and enormous energy, she took up her abode in a house which she built at Greenbush. Her daughter Martha was in her teens; Stephen was six; and John three. It was not to be expected that she would support this small but husky family out of the income to be obtained through tilling the unresponsive soil at the First Herring Brook. She had no notion when she left the home on the other side of the water, that it should be supported by any such means. She was an accomplished weaver, and brought with her, from England, the spinning wheel, hand loom, and a stock of woolen yarn and "coarse threads", with which she immediately began to supply the needs of her neighbors, in exchange for those necessities of life which she could not supply herself.

It is a little singular that she did not re-marry. Second and third marriages among the early pilgrims were frequent and a fourth and fifth search for connubial happiness, not unusual. If she had the opportunity, she did not grasp it, but stuck steadily to her loom and her children. She saved scrupuously, and continually added to her stock of homemade fabrics. She bought the same interest in the Conihasset lands as her male partners and chose her "lay out" shrewdly when the first allotment was made. Her daughter Martha married Isaac Chittenden, the son of her fellow weaver and Conihasset Partner, Thomas Chittenden, in 1646.

BUCK

From the Buck Family by C. B. Harvey
page 23

1 In October 1635, Isaac Buck and several other persons, were transported to Boston in the ship "Amitia" (Capt. Geo. Downs), for refusing to take the oath of conformity. Isaac was then aged thirty-four (Samuel Bucks says 23). His wife, Frances Marsh, whom he married before leaving England, followed her husband in December of the same year, being then twenty years old. Isaac went to Scituate, where he bought land, and where he was enumerated as "subject to military duty", in 1643. In 1647 he was elected Town Clerk of Scituate. By occupation he was a blacksmith. He seems to have become influential in town and church matters. In 1658 he was admitted to the privilege of a freeman, and in the following year was elected constable, an office of far more dignity than in these days. After this he was elected deputy for Scituate, which office he held for several years. In 1668 he was made a councilman, and in 1676 received the appointment of Lieutenant in the Colonial militia. While in this capacity he repulsed an Indian attack on the town. He seems to have faithfully and honorably filled all of these offices. In 1650 he lodged a complaint with Governor Bradford and the council against one John Hewes for larceny and procured the conviction of Hewes. In 1655 the Governor and council fined him 20 S. for refusing to shoe certain horses which were to be employed in carrying one of the Massachusetts Commissioners to New Haven on public business. His neighbors sustained him in the act and procured a remission of the fine. In 1656 Governor Bradford complained of him for misbehavior as clerk of the Scituate "train band", which position he held for several terms. This action too, his fellow townsmen seem to have upheld against the Governor and Council. In 1659 he was again in "hot water" about the town tax rates, but managed to get out. He died in 1696, age 93. His widow survived him. His children, at least eight in number, were Thomas, Joseph, Benjamin, Jonathan, Elizabeth, Mehitable (married Stephen Crittenden), Ruth and Deborah.

TIBBETTS

From New Hampshire Genealogy
Vol. 4, page 1957

This family is among the earliest in New Hampshire and has been continuously associated with the development of the State in worthy ways. From southeastern New Hampshire, it has spread to all parts of the United States.

1 Henry Tibbetts, born in England about 1596, embarked from London, July 13, 1635, in the Ship James, accompanied by his wife Elizabeth, born in the same year as himself, sons Jeremiah born 1631, and Samuel born 1633. He was a shoemaker and soon settled in Dover, N. H., where he had a grant of 3½ acres of land for a house lot at Dover Neck. At different times he had other grants, including one of 20 acres on the west side of Back River (now called Bellamy River), and another of 100 acres adjoining the Newichuwanock River, in what is now Rollinsford, then Dover. He held several minor offices in town, was a hard working industrious farmer, and for some years was the only shoemaker in the place. He died in 1676, at the age of 80 years, having survived his wife Elizabeth, several years. They had several children born soon after their arrival in America.

Jeremiah born England 1631

2 Jeremiah Tibbetts, son of Henry and Elizabeth, born in England in 1631, died in Dover, N. H. 1677. His will dated May 5, and proved October 31, 1677. His widow Mary survived him. He lived in Dover, was a farmer, and for several years kept the jail or prison of the colony. He had several grants from the town, one embracing 100 acres in Rollinsford, and one of 3½ acres at Dover Neck on which he built his residence. He inherited the greater part of his father's land, including 100 acres in Rollinsford. He married Mary, daughter of Thomas Canney, a neighbor who lived but a short distance from the Tibbetts home. She died at Dover July 2, 1706. They had eight sons and four daughters.

RAWLINS OR ROLLINS

Genealogy by John R. Rollins

1 James Rawlins emigrated to America in 1632 with settlers of Ipswich, Mass. He did not, however, remain long at Ipswich for he is mentioned by Farmers as being at Newbury in 1634; being probably, one of a small party who went there for the purpose of looking out a favorable spot for settlement. We next hear of him at Dover, where he was located as early as 1644, as he received a grant of land from the town, July 10 of that year. Another grant of 100 acres was laid out for him November 26, 1656.

Mr. Rollins resided in that part of ancient Dover called Bloody Point (now Newington) till his death, receiving grants of lands at various times. His will dated Dover, December 16, 1685, gave property to his wife, Hannah, to his son, Icabod, the oldest, to Benjamin, and to his "other children", not named in the will. The will was proved July 25, 1691. Obadiah Mars, of Strawberry Bank, was executor.

Of the previous history of James Rollins, or his personal character, we know nothing, except by inferences to be drawn from the following fragmentary notices. He was not, probably, one of that class who came hither solely for the high purpose of seeking a "faith's pure shrine", but was rather an adventurer, prompted either by a spirit of enterprise, or a desire for gain, or both.

It was witnessed upon oath that James Rollins took 8 pence per day, and meate and drinke for ten day's work, for one of his servants, for weeding corn. Contrary to an order of Court. And therefore he is to pay five shillings for every day he has so transgressed.

James Rollins was presented for neglect of coming unto publicke meeting and admonished therefore and sentenced to pay the fees of the Courte, two shillings and sixpence.

Mr. Rollins was one of the hardy pioneers in the settlement of the Western wilderness, a plain, sturdy farmer, possessed of good common sense, and practical ideas: capable of thinking and acting for himself sometimes independently of the arbitrary enactments of the law of his time, and hospitable to strangers tho proscribed.

Children - Icabod, Thomas b 1641, Samuel b 1649, James, Benjamin b 1662, Joseph, Deborah married James Benson of Kittery 3/20/1719

2 Thomas also lived at Bloody Point; was taxed there in 1662 and 1668 and removed to Exeter, N. H., where he remained till his death. His farm appears to have been located on the old road leading from Exeter to Hampton. We know but little of him, but one passage in his life has been preserved, which tends to show that he possessed something of his father's independence, and that his ideas of justice were something in advance of those of his neighbors. During early political trouble in New Hampshire, he joined a party to remonstrate against unusual proceedings of the Governor. He, with others, was arrested and tried for high treason, but acquitted. SAWYER

1 Mary Sawyer, who married Robert Savory at Newbury, December 8, 1656, was the widow of William Mitchell of Newbury. It is reasonable to assume that she was born in England, since the date of her first marriage to William Mitchell was November 7, 1648. She probably was the daughter of William Sawyer, although no evidence has been found to support such a conclusion.

For the purpose of our record, we will consider Mary Sawyer as the first generation.

AYER From Vol. 2 Gustin & Carlisle Genealogy Essex. Inst. 929.2, G982, G3 and elsewhere

In the catalogue of the deeds of Battle Abbey, by Thorp, is the following legendary account of the name Ayer, - formerly Eyre.

"The first of the family was named Truelove, who was one of the followers of William the Conqueror. At the Battle of Hastings, Duke William was flung from his horse and his helmet beaten into his face, which, Truelove observing, pulled it off and horsed him again. The Duke told him, 'Thou shalt hereafter, from Truelove, be called Ayer (Air) because thou has given me the air I breathe.' After the battle, the Duke on inquiring respecting him, found him severely wounded (his leg and thigh having been struck off). He ordered him the utmost care and on his recovery, gave him lands in Derby in reward for his services, and the leg and thigh in armor, cut off for his crest an honorary badge yet worn by all the Eyres in England."

1 John Ayer, born in England in 1592, came to America in 1637 from Norwich, County of Norfolk, England. He was living in Salisbury in 1640, where he was one of the original petitioners and received land in the first division in 1640 and 1643. His residence in ancient Salisbury was between that of John Stevens and Daniel Ladd. In 1646 he removed to Ipswich and thence about

WHITE

From Pope's "Pioneers of Massachusetts"
p. 493

1 William White, husbandman, came in "Mary and John" in March 1633-4. Settled at Ipswich; proprietor 1634; freeman June 22, 1642. Removed to Haverhill about 1642. Proprietor, town officer. Wife Mary died February 22, 1681; he married, second, September 21, 1682, Sarah Foster. She returned to Ipswich after his death and died there. He (William) died September 28, 1690, aged about 80 years.

The account of William White in Savage Genealogical Dictionary, Vol. IV, page 515, differs somewhat from the above; it states that from Ipswich he moved to Newbury, removed to Haverhill 1649. William White left a very good estate, as the inventory shows real estate 346 pounds with a proportion of personal property far better than in those days was customary with our yeomen. Descendants, especially through John's son John, are very numerous and have been among the most useful and honorable of the land.

2 John White, son of William and Mary White, b 1639, d 1668, m Hannah French November 25, 1662. Savage Genealogical Dictionary states that this John White had "cultivated in some reputable degree his mental powers, and a copious illustration of shorthand writing by him is still preserved". His will was probated April 1669. It names his son John and his father.

3 Capt. John White, son of John and Hannah (French) White, b 1663, d 1727, m 1687 Lydia Gilman. In March 1690, the selectmen of Haverhill authorized six garrisons and four "houses of refuge" for defense against the Indians. One was owned and commanded by Capt. John White. He had six men under his command. In 1701 he was chosen town clerk. In 1705 he was allowed to build a fulling mill, the first mill in the town.

LITTLE

From "Descendants of Geo. Little"

1 George Little, the founder of the Newbury family, came from Unicorn Street, London Bridge, England, to Newbury in 1640 and is said to have worked for Mr. John Woodbridge. In September 1650, he bought freehold right in Newbury of John Osgood, Sr. He seems to have been "well to do". Held no town offices but had many appointments which imply a reputation for ability and uprightness. His name appears among the petitioners for a remission of the fine and punishment inflicted upon Major Robert Pike of Salisbury in 1653 for denouncing a law just passed by the General Court which made it a misdemeanor for anyone to preach upon the Sabbath, who was not an ordained minister. In the prolonged ecclesiastical dispute which divided the Church at Newbury for so many years, he was on the side of Rev. Parker, but soon after the settlement of the difficulties, he, with his wife, joined the First Baptist Church in Boston and in 1682 they became members of a small church of the same denomination in Newbury.

LITTLE (Cont'd.)

Tradition says that he was very strong, that he was able to carry his plough on his shoulder from his home to his farm on Turkey Hill, three miles, and that he was exceedingly well versed in Scripture, being able to give the book and chapter of any text that might be quoted.

His house built in 1679, was torn down in 1851, stood about 30 rods east of the present residence of Deacon Joseph Little.

He married first Alice Poor, who sailed for New England from Southampton in the "Bevis" in May, 1638, in the party of Stephen Dummer. She died December 1, 1680, age 62. Second Eleanor, widow of Thomas Barnard of Amesbury, who survived him, dying November 27, 1694.

Exact date of his death not known, but between March 15, 1693 and November 27, 1694.

2 Joseph Little b September 22, 1653; married October 31, 1677 Mary, daughter of Tristram Coffin and Judith (Greenleaf) Coffin, who was born November 12, 1657 and died November 28, 1725. Capt. Joseph was much more prominent in town affairs than his father. He was tything man in 1685 and selectman in 1692-3, 1700, 1704-5. He seems to have always been connected with the established (Congregational) Church, of which he and his wife were members.

About 1739 he moved to that part of Newbury, now Newburyport, where several of his sons were engaged in trade. Distributed his real estate among his sons before his death.

He married second, February 11, 1768 Hannah Morrill, widow of Jacob Currier of Hampstead. He held several town offices. On the incorporation of Hampstead, N. H., which was originally part of Haverhill, he was named in the charter to call the first town meeting. He lived there till his death November 1777, a leading man and influential citizen, serving several times as selectman and moderator. He held for several years a magistrate's commission, did a large amount of legal business, and solemnized many marriages. According to tradition, he was noted for his extensive knowledge of the Bible.

In his will dated December 31, 1770, he gives his son Daniel 40 pounds, divides his household goods between his daughter Sarah Ayer, Ruth Smith, and their heirs of Elizabeth Kimball, gives a cow to each of his grandsons John and Joseph Tallant, and leaves the rest of his real and personal to his son Samuel. His first two children were born in Newbury, the others in Haverhill.

POOR

Alice Poor sailed for New England from Southhampton in the ship "Bevis", in May 1638, in the party of Stephen Dummer. She married George Little of Newbury and died December 1, 1680. Her descendants are listed under the Little family.

COFFIN From Coffin's History of Newbury

1 Tristram Coffin was born in 1609 in Brixham Parish, town of Plymouth, England. He was the son of Peter and Joanna Coffin. Tristram married Dionis Stevens, and after the death of his feather, he came to New England in 1642, bringing with him his mother who died in May 1661, age 77, his two sisters, Eunice and Mary, his wife and five children, Peter, Tristram, Elizabeth, James and John. He first came to Salisbury, then to Haverhill the same year, then to Newbury in 1648, thence in 1654 or 5, he removed to Salisbury, where he signs his name "Tristram Coffyn, commissioner of Salisbury". In 1659, a company was formed in Salisbury, who purchased nine tenths of Nantucket, whither he removed in 1660 with his wife, mother and four of his children, James, John, Stephen, who was born in Newbury May 11, 1652, and Mary, who was born in Haverhill February 20, 1645. He died 1681, aged 72.

From Nantucket, A History by R. A. Douglas - Lithgow

Tristram Coffin was a man of ancient lineage, a strong will, a dominant personality, whose activities in many directions enured the success of the settlement. He born in Brixton, Devonshire, England, in 1605, and married in or about 1630 Dionis Stevens of the same place. Impelled by a desire, which was very prevalent at that time, to visit the New World, and to found new plantations there on an agricultural and stock-raising basis, in 1642 when he was thirty-seven years old, he emigrated to America with his wife, five small children, his widowed mother, and two unmarried sisters. Until 1659, he lived alternately in Salisbury, Haverhill and Newbury, Mass. In that year he came to Nantucket, and made arrangements for the purchase of the island by a company which he organized in Salisbury. He removed to the island with a part of his family in 1660, and there lived until his death, which occurred on October 3, 1681, at the age of 76 years. During his entire residence in Nantucket, he resided near Capaum, and for the most part, at a house which he built and named "Northam". The interests which he and his sons and his sons-in-law represented, gave him power to control to a large extent the enterprises of the island. He was appointed Chief Magistrate of Nantucket by Gov. Andros in 1667, and again by Gov. Lovelace on June 29, 1671. Benjamin Franklin Folger, speaking of Tristram Coffin's relations to the Indians, says: "The Christian character which he exhibited, and which he practically illustrated in all the varied circumstances and conditions of the infant colony is analogous to that which subsequently was practiced by the founder of Pennsylvania, so that the spirit of the one seems to be but the counterpart of the other".

From "Certain Comeoverers" by
Henry Howland Crapo - Vol. II page 751

2 Tristram Coffin, Jr., was the second son of Tristram and Dionis Coffin, born in Brixton in 1632. He was ten years old when he came over with his father to New England. He learned the trade of a tailor in his youth. When he was twenty-one years of age, he married Judith Greenleaf, widow of Henry Somerby, a daughter of Edmund Greenleaf, March 2, 1653, by whom he had ten children. They resided in Newbury, Mass. Children were:

Judith	b December	4, 1653

Coffin's Newbury, p. 303, recites substantially the above, but states he removed to Boston about 1650.

From "Certain Comeoverers" by Henry Howland Crapo
p. 727

Edmund Greenleaf was born in the Parish of Brixham, County of Devon, on Tor Bay, about 1600. It is probable that he came over in 1634. He was granted a house lot in Newbury in 1635, and in the first allotment of lands, he was given one hundred and twenty acres. He is styled a "dyer". He was admitted as a freeman of Newbury, March 13, 1638/9.

Edmund Greenleaf was pre-eminently a soldier. He was one of a committee of four appointed in 1638 by the town to oversee the "bringing of arms to church and to see that all inhabitants bring their armes compleat one Sabath Day in the month and the Lecture day following", and to report if the armes are defective, and if found unfit, to collect and distrain twelve pence for each default. In 1639 he was ordered to be Ensign for Newbury. May 22, 1639 licensed to "keep a house of entertainment". His house was near Old Town Bridge. October 1641 appointed to "end small businesses", i.e., to act as magistrate in civil cases. In 1642 was the "ancient and experienced lieutenant under Capt. Gerrish". In 1647 was alloted a house lot in the New Town on Greenleaf Lane, now State Street in Newburyport. Removed to Boston.

WOODBRIDGE Woodbridge Record, - Mitchell
Essex Institute Reference 929.2W882M1

1 Rev. John Woodbridge b England 1613, son of Rev. John Woodbridge and Sarah Parker, daughter of a learned English Divine. "He was trained up", says Cotton Mather, "in the way he should go". Was "sent to Oxford when he had finished school and kept there until the oath of Conformity came to be required of him; which neither his father, nor his conscience approving, he removed from thence into a course of more private studies". In the year 1634, being then twenty-one years of age, he came to New England on the ship "Mary & John", in company with his uncle Rev. Thomas Parker; and with him, and others who accompanied him, settled at Newbury, Mass. He was town clerk of Newbury from 1634 to 1638, and was chosen "Surveyor of Armies" in 1637. In the year 1639 he married Mercy, daughter of Thomas Dudley, Governor of Massachusetts Colony.

In 1643 he kept school in Boston. He, with others, negotiated the purchase from the Indians of the plantations on which the town of Andover grew up; and he was ordained at Andover, October 24, 1645; this being one of the earliest - if not the earliest - of the regular ordinations in New England. He returned in the year 1647 to England, with his wife and family (having at that time three children); was Chaplain of the Parliamentary Commissioners, who treated with the King at the Isle of Wight; and afterward minister at Andover, Hants & Barford St., Martin (Wilshire) England, until he was ejected at the Restoration. In 1663 he was driven by the Bartholomew Act from a school he had established at Newbury, England, and in the same year returned to New England. He arrived July 26, having lived sixteen years in England. He was made assistant to his uncle, Rev. Thomas Parker, at Newbury, remaining in office till November 30, 1670, when he was dismissed in consequence of dissensions in the Church.

He was "Assistant" of Massachusetts Colony 1683-4 and died at Newbury, Sunday, March 17, 1695. His wife, who was born September 27, 1621, died July 1, 1691.

John Woodbridge was a man of large "substance" for those days, and in the year 1688 - in the time of Gov. Andros - he was taxed in the town of Newbury on 4 houses, 30 acres of plow land, 50 acres of meadow land, 40 acres pasture land, 2 horses, 6 oxen, 8 cows, 15 young cattle, 34 sheep. His farm was north of Green St., Newbury, and his house stood on the east side of the pond, on the upper green. Judge Sewall says in his diary, under date of March 17, 1694-5, "Mr. Woodbridge dies of a good old age - more than 80; he was a good man and a constant attendant upon God at his Public Worship, on the Sabath day, though he himself preached not".

Mather, in his Magnalia, says of his church troubles:

> "There arose at last, little differences between him and some of the people upon certain points of Church discipline, wherein his largeness and their straightness, might perhaps better have met in a temper; and these differences ended not, without his putting an end unto his own ministry among them; after which the remarkable blessings of God upon his own private estate abundantly made up to him the public stipend which he had parted withal.
> "He was by nature wonderfully composed, patient and pleasant; and he was by grace much more so; he had a great command of his passions, and could and would, and often did forgive injuries, at a rate that hardly can be imitated. At last, he had been a great reader, a great scholar, a great Christian, and a pattern of goodness in all the successive stations wherein the Lord of Hosts had placed him. On March 17, the day of the Christian Sabath, after much pain, he went into his everlasting rest; having a few minutes before it, refused a glass of offered wine, saying, "I am going where I shall have better."

DUDLEY

From Book entitled "FAMILY DATA" concerning several families including Dudley, from year 1277 to 1906. Essex Institute reference number 929.1 G.19, pages 1 to 28.

1 Governor Thomas Dudley

The above book contains a complete and very much detailed description of his English background and ancestry. Outlines his youth, his education, his religion and his unusual social connections. For one interested, it is very much worth while reading. For purposes of this record, the following has been extracted.

Born in Northampton, England, 1576, son of Capt. Roger Dudley, who descended from the first Baron Dudley, who died in 1488.

About 1600, Thomas Dudley married Miss Dorothy York, who was born in 1582, daughter of Edmond York. Mather describes Thomas Dudley's wife as a "gentlewoman, both of good estate and good extration.

"On the Arbella, of 350 tons, carrying 28 guns and 52 men, were the Beautiful Lady Arbella Johnson, sister of the Earl of Lincoln, and her husband Isaac Johnson, Governor John Winthrop and two of his sons, Sir Richard Saltonstall, his three sons and two daughters, Rev. George Phillips and wife, William Coddington and wife, and Deputy Governor Thomas Dudley, with one son, Samuel and four daughters, Ann, Patience, Sarah and Mercy."

He first settled in Newton (now Cambridge), then Boston. Sold his Cambridge home in 1635. Then he and several others went to Ipswich. In 1640 he removed to Roxbury. "It has been said that Dudley removed to Roxbury to place himself under the administration of Elliot the Apostle to the Indians."

His homestead lay between what are now Washington and Bartlett Streets on the south, and Roxbury Street on the north, extending from Guild Row to Putnam Street.

Thomas Dudley died July 31, 1653. "He was buried in one of the oldest cemeteries in New England at the corner of Washington and Eustis Street, Roxbury."

DUDLEY (Cont'd.)

Compendium of American Genealogy, Vol. VII, page 847, says, Thomas Dudley was deputy governor 13 years, governor's assistant 7 years and governor 1634, 1640, 1645, 1650. Commissioner of United Colonies 1643, 1647, 1649. Commissioner of military affairs 1636. Founder of Harvard College, name on the new charter of Harvard College 1650. President of the Confederacy 1643, 1647, 1649. His wife, Dorothy York, born 1582, died December 27, 1643, buried in Roxbury. Married second Catherine, daughter of Dr. John Dighton, widow of Samuel Highborn.

THOMAS DUDLEY — From page 194 of book entitled, "THE FOUNDING OF HARVARD COLLEGE" by Samuel Eliot Morison

"Thomas Dudley, the Deputy Governor, was the most important layman on the Board after Governor Winthrop, and the oldest. Baptized October 12, 1576, at Yardley Hastings near North Hampton, the son of Captain Roger Dudley, who was 'slain in the wars', his education was had partly in grammar school, subsequently as a page in the household of the Earl of Northampton, and finally as captain of English volunteers who went over to support Henry of Navarre. A well read man, he gave to his daughter Anne, the poetess, a thorough grounding in English literature, and sent two sons through Emmanuel College. For many years he was steward to the Earl of Lincoln, whose daughters married Isaac Lincoln and John Humfey; and for a short time in John Cotton's parish of old Boston. One of the organizers of the migration of 1630, Dudley came over with Winthrop as Deputy Governor, and served the Colony in that office, or as Governor, for seventeen annual terms. A stout, energetic man of sixty-one, autocratic by temperament and irascible in temper, he distrusted the gentler instincts of Winthrop, and deplored his patience with poor human nature. Stern men such as Dudley, 'with empires in their brains', were doubtless needed in a new commonwealth, where even puritans tended to become slack and lawless. But we love Winthrop the better for saying on his death bed, when Dudley pressed him to sign an order banishing some dissenter, that 'he had done too much of that work already'. To heretics, Dudley was ever 'a whip and maul'. As Assistant in the General Court of 1636, as Overseer of Harvard College from 1637 to his death in 1653, and as signer of the charter of 1650, he was of our principal founders; and from his lusty loins sprang the seed of many future graduates. His services to the College - which included no gifts or benefactions - are commemorated by the Dudley Gate on which is inscribed a part of his epitaph by his daughter Ann Bradstreet:

'One of thy founders, him New England know,
Who staid thy feeble sides when thou wast low,
Who spent his state, his strength, and years with care,
That after comers in them might have share.'

"More characteristic of him was the epitaph written many years later by Governor Belcher:

'Here lies Thomas Dudley, that trusty old stud,
A bargin's a bargin, and must be made good.'"

A footnote on the above points out that Thomas Dudley (A.B. 1651) was his grandson, and Joseph Dudley (A.B. 1665) was the Governor's seventh son, born when the Governor was seventy years old.

The children of Thomas Dudley and his first wife, Dorothy York, were as follows:

Samuel born England 1610, married Mary Winthrop
Ann, about 1612, married Gov. Simon Bradstreet
Patience, died February 8, 1689-90, Ipswich, married Major Daniel Denison of Cambridge.
Sarah, bpt. July 23, 1620, died Roxbury, 1659, married first Maj. Benjamin Keane, second Thomas Macy of Boston

GERRISH

Coffin's History of Newbury, Mass., page 302

1 "Capt. William Gerrish came from Bristol, England, to Newbury, Mass. about 1640. He married Joanna Oliver, April 17, 1645, widow of Mr. John Oliver. In 1678 he moved to Boston and died in Salem, August 9, 1687, age 70. His wife Joanna died June 14, 1677." His wife, Joanna Oliver, was daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Goodale, the widow of John Goodale, who died in England before she (Elizabeth) came to this country.

A complete history of the Gerrish family may be found in the History of Boscowen & Webster, N. H., by Coffin. This book states that Capt. William Gerrish was owner of No. 3 Long Wharf in Boston, where he conducted his business. His death occurred in Salem while visiting, and he is buried in the Walter Prince tomb in the Charter St. Cemetery.

2 Moses Gerrish, son of Capt. William and Joanna, born May 9, 1656 in Newbury, arried September 24, 1677, Jane, daughter of Reverend Henry Sewall and sister of Chief Justice Sewall of Massachusetts. She was born at Badesly, England, October 25, 1659 and died January 29, 1717. Sarah Gerrish, daughter of Moses and Joanna, born December 25, 1683, married 1705 Benjamin Woodbridge.

GOODALE

Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury
by Hoyt - Vol. 1, p. 176

1 Mrs. Elizabeth Goodale came from Yarmouth, England in the "Mary Ann" in 1637 and died at Newbury, April 8, 1647. She was the widow of John Goodale of Yarmouth, whose will was dated 1625. She came with four daughters, Joanna being the third.

Joanna Goodale married first John Oliver and after his death she married Capt. William Gerrish of Newbury. She died June 14, 1677. Her husband removed to Boston and died 1684 while visiting in Salem, and is buried in the Prince tomb in Charter St. Cemetery.

SEWALL

Early New England People
by S. E. Titcomb
p. 215

1. "Henry Sewall, had a grant of five hundred acres of land in Newbury, and was a founder of the town. He was made a freeman May 16, 1637, at the Court of Election held that year in Cambridge, traveling with others forty miles on foot for that purpose, that he might strengthen the hands of Gov. Winthrop against Sir Henry Vane. He was four times chosen a representative to the General Court.

"He married March 25, 1646, by Richard Saltonstall, Esq., to Jane, eldest daughter of Stephen and Alice (Archer) Dummer of Newbury. The following winter he and his wife returned to England with Mrs. Sewall's father and mother, the New England climate 'not being agreeable' to Mr. and Mrs. Dummer.

"Mr. Sewall made a voyage to New England for the purpose of visiting his father, and in 1659 he came again to New England for the purpose of settling his father's estate, his father having deceased in his absence from the country." He proposed returning to England, but it is certain that he never did. The children of Henry and Jane (Dummer) Sewall were:

DUMMER

From "Certain Comeoverers", Vol. 2, p. 668

1 Stephen Dummer was born in Bishopstoke, England in 1609. In May 1638, he came to New England in the ship "Bevis", sailing from Southampton. With him were his wife, Alice Archer, and his children, Jane age ten, Dorothy age six, Richard age 4, and Thomas age 2. In New England there was born a daughter Mehitable, January 1, 1640. In 1645 three hundred acres were granted to Stephen Dummer at Turkey Hill in Newbury. "But the climate being not agreeable", writes Judge Sewall, "they returned to England". Jane Dummer is the only one who ever returned to New England, although his brother Richard Dummer came in 1634 and remained in Newbury.

TAPPAN

From book entitled, "Certain Comeoverers"
by Henry Howland Crapo

1 p. 646 - Abraham Tappan baptized at Calbridge, England, April 10, 1606. Came to New England in 1637 on the ship "Mary Anne".

p. 647 - In the plat of the lots at the original Newbury settlement at Parker River, the third lot from the river by the "east gutter", is designated as Abraham Tappan's. On October 16, 1637, Abraham Tappan was licensed by John Endicott, Esq., "to live in this jurisdiction and received into the town of Newbury as an inhabitant thereof, and hath promised under his hand to be subject to any lawful order that shall be made by the towne". On May 2, 1638, Abraham Tappan was admitted as a freeman. In 1639, he acquired twenty acres of land on the "great river", probably meaning the Merrimac. During the following years there are numerous records of the acquirement of lands. In 1638 he was one of the five men deputied to manage the town's affairs, and thereafter he served the town as Selectman many times. There are many references in the public records which indicate that Abraham Tappan was an active and enterprising man of affairs. In 1659 he was one of the original proprietors of Pennecooke and Contocooke, now Concord, New Hampshire, and in 1664 he went to New Jersey and laid out and settled the town of Woodbridge, where he lived for some time. For many years and until his death he lived near the Old Town Green, then called the "Trayening Green", directly opposite Tristram Coffin's house and not far from Henry Sewall's house on Parker Lane. Abraham Tappan died in 1672. His wife was Susanna Taylor.

From Tappan Genealogy - Page 7

2 Peter Tappan, M.D., eldest son of Abraham Tappan, was born in England, 1634 and was brought by his parents to New England in 1637. He married, April 3, 1661, Jane Batt, daughter of Mr. Christopher and Ann Batt. Peter Tappan was a physician at Newbury. He belonged to one of five companies into which the sheep owners of Newbury were divided and was the third largest owner, having eighty sheep. "He traded at sea." In 1697 he built for himself a house in Newbury on High Street. Dr. Peter Tappan died November 3, 1707 from effects of a fall. Children were:

BATT

Pioneers of Massachusetts
by Pope

1 Christopher Batt of Sarum, England, tanner, aged 37, with wife Ann, aged 32, and five children under ten years of age, came in the ship "Bevis" in 1638. Settled at Newbury. Made freeman March 13, 1638-9. Was one of the incorporators of Salisbury 1638 and removed thither in 1640. He was deputy commissioner and appointed to train the Company at Salisbury 5/13/1640. Removed to Boston (1650). His wife Ann died 1673, aged 72. His daughter Anne, born in England, married June 12, 1657, Edmund Angier.

His daughter Jane, also born in England, married April 3, 1661, Peter Tappan.

From "Old Time New England"
Vol. 37 p. 85

About 1650, Christopher Batt, a tanner, came to Boston (from Newbury) and built a house on the west side of Great Street (now Washington Street) about opposite from where the Transcript Building stood later. In the rear of his house were his tan pitts and his orchard. In his orchard in 1661 he was accidently killed by someone shooting at a mark.

He had built small additions on the north and south sides of his house which were occupied by his sons when they came to manhood.

His grandson, Paul Batt, a mariner, died in 1704 and the property was leased to Josiah Franklin who had it in July of 1707, a year and a half after the birth of Benjamin Franklin his son.

DECKER

1 John Decker - According to W. L. Lowell, author of "John Decker the Pioneer of Haverhill, Mass." (Massachusetts Historical Society 1945) John Decker was the first of the Deckers in New England.

He bought a lot in Haverhill of Nathaniel Smith in 1672. The vital statistics of Rowley, Mass., record his marriage June 18, 1680 to Mary Scott, daughter of Benjamin and Margaret (Stevenson) Scott. John Decker died October 18, 1694 and Mary, his wife, died December 25, 1700.

Haverhill vital statistics record the following children:

John	son of	John	&	Mary	(Scott)	Decker	b 1683
Benjamin	son of	"	"	"	"	"	b 1687
Elizabeth	dau of	"	"	"	"	"	b 1681
Joseph	son of	"	"	"	"	"	b 1684

Above son Benjamin died January 14, 1690.

2 John Decker married Sarah Bennett, January 21, 1705-6, the daughter of Dr. David Bennett and Mary (Plummer) Bennett (Rowley vital statistics). They moved from Rowley to Kittery, Maine, where their oldest son John was born in 1707 and then moved to Newington, N. H., where church records are as follows:

(N. H. Genealogical Record Vol. 3 p. 58)

September 30, 1715 - John, Sarah, Mary, Hannah, Elizabeth and Joseph Decker, children of John and Sarah Decker were baptized.

October 14, 1719 - David, son of John and Sarah Decker, was baptized.

February 3, 1723 - Abigail, daughter of John and Sarah Decker, was baptized.

September 15, 1728 - Mr. John Decker and Sarah, his wife, were admitted to full communion in this church.

According to author Lowell (above), he moved to Portsmouth, N. H. in 1730.

N. H. Register of Deeds, Book 17, page 276, indicates that John Decker, cooper, bought land in Portsmouth from George Marriner, July 30, 1730 and added in 1732 one half acre purchased from Abigail Elliott, administrator, Book 18 page 355. He died at the home of one of his sons in Wiscasset, Maine in 1754, his wife Sarah died about the year 1752.

DECKER (Cont'd.)

From the above book by W. L. Lowell and the vital records of Kittery and Newington, the following information is obtained: Children of John and Sarah Decker:

John	born in Kittery March 29, 1706
Sarah	born in Kittery May 10, 1709
Mary	born in Kittery March 1, 1711
Hannah	born in Newington
Elizabeth	born in Newington
Joseph	born in Newington

Abigail	born in Newington m John Love
Sarah	above married Clement Meserve	10/13/1726
Mary	above married John Hodgdon, Jr.	1/30/1729
Hannah	above married Hatevil Nutter	4/ 7/1731
Elizabeth	above married Joseph Moody	9/19/1734
Joseph	above married Rachael Boynton
David	above married Eunice Place	4/ 9/1741

3 Joseph Decker was a small baby when baptized in Newington, assuming that the children listed in the above record are arranged according to age. He married Rachael Boynton, daughter of Caleb Boynton, Jr. and his wife Christian (Parsons) Boynton. That he lived in Portsmouth before moving to Wiscasset, Maine, is evidenced by the fact that he sold one half part of one acre of land at Long Beach, Portsmouth, with buildings thereon, to John Hodgdon (his sister Mary's husband), April 28, 1755 and Rachael his wife also signs the deed. In this deed he is styled "shipwright" and of Wiscasset.

No record of the children of Joseph and Rachael Decker has been found, but his children, living on July 5, 1776, signed deeds transferring property on Jermysquam Island, as follows, these deeds state "property our honored father Joseph Decker died seized of".

John Decker, Jr. (The Jr. here used to identify him from his Uncle John)

Rachael, who married Isaac Clifford, March 3, 1772, and whose gravestone in North Edgcomb Cemetery shows she died October 8, 1821, age 63. (Therefore born in 1758.) Evidently named for her mother.

William Decker
Molly Decker
Spencer Decker (yeoman) married Ann - he died 1816
Joseph Decker - mariner

DECKER (Cont'd.)

4 Spencer Decker, the son of Joseph and Rachael, is listed in the census of 1790 as of Edgcomb, with one male under 16 years and 5 females. This indicates one son, four daughters and his wife. The son was Spencer Decker, Jr., who married September 9, 1810, Eunice Moore. He died _____1816, the same year as his father.

The daughters were

5 Martha who married first William Simpson
second William Ayer

Rachael who married James Carr 1786

Margaret (Peggy) who married November 3, 1792 (Intent), Nathaniel Nelson, a tanner, of Alna. They had 13 children, the third was named Spencer Decker Nelson.

Christiana was the executor of his estate. She purchased the home and later in 1823 married a Joseph Hilton.

5 Martha Decker (widow of William Simpson) married William Ayer
6 Martha Ayer married David Weeks Chapman
7 Abbie F. Chapman married Joseph G. Lash
8 David C. Lash married C. Emma Shrives

SCOTT

From Essex Institute Historical Collections
Vol. 23 page 237. Early Settlers of Rowley.

1 Benjamin Scott, with wife Margaret, was here in 1651. Savage says he was first of Braintree, thence to Cambridge. He had no house lot laid out to him until 11 May 1664, when "it was granted and voted that Benjamin Scott should have what land could conveniently be spared between Edward Hasens and the end of Mrs. Rogers' land leaving sufficient way to the clay pits".

His will, dated 6 June 1671, proved 26 September 1671, mentions: wife (unnamed); son Benjamin; son John; daughter Mary Scott (Essex Probate).

His widow Margaret was executed in Salem, 22 September 1692, as guilty of "certain detestable acts called Witchcraft and Sorceries", and was the only one so executed from Rowley.

Children, born in Braintree:

Hannah, perhaps born in England
John, born December 25, 1640, died soon

Children, born in Cambridge:

BENNETT

Essex Antiquanian Vol. 8 p. 187

1 Dr. David Bennett, Rowley physician married first - ? -, second, Mary, widow of John Cheeny, Jr., April 29, 1672. She died September 27, 1682. Third, Rebecca Buller, February 14, 1682-83. He died February 4, 1718-19, age 103. (See his gravestone Rowley, Mass.)

Children born in Rowley:

Anthony
John
David
Sarah b September 15, 1682 m John Decker January 21, 1705-06, she died about 1752.

Above Mary, the second wife of Dr. David Bennett and widow of John Cheeny, Jr., was daughter of Francis Plummer of Newbury. "After her death, Dr. Bennett married Rebecca Buller, daughter of Capt. Robert Spencer in 1683 when he was nearly 70. She was a sister of the wife of Sir William Phipps, the wealthy Governor of the Colony. Dr. Bennett had three children by each of his three wives."

From the above it will be seen that Sarah's mother died when Sarah was only 12 days old and that she was brought up by her step-mother, Rebecca (Spencer) Bennett. From History of Rowley by Gage, we learn Rebecca had three children by Dr. Bennett:

David d May 5, 1679 Rowley V. S.
Spencer b June 6, 1685
William

The above Spencer Bennett (not one of our ancestors) was adopted by Sir William Phipps and his name changed to Spencer Phipps. He was educated at Harvard, was Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts from 1733 to 1756 and died 1757, age 73.

It is from Rebecca Spencer Bennett (not one of our direct ancestors) that the name Spencer in the Bennett, Decker and Ayer families originates.

BOYNTON

Genealogy and Family History of the State of Maine
Vol. 3 Page 1501

1 William Boynton was born in 1606 at Knapton, East Riding, Yorkshire, England. With his brother John he embarked at Hull in the fall of 1638 and arrived in Boston that same year. The party was under the charge of Rev. Ezekiel Rogers, and they settled in Rowley, Massachusetts, where William Boynton was assigned a lot of land on Bradford Street, to which he subsequently added by extensive purchases in various parts of the county. During his lifetime, he gave a farm to each of his children and the remainder of his estate he left to his wife, Elizabeth Jackson, who came with him from England.

In the records he is called a planter and weaver, but in the deeds he is called a tailor. He must have been a man of education and influence for he taught the school from 1656 to 1681 and was probably the first person employed as a schoolmaster in the town.

The children born in Rowley were:

John
Elizabeth
Zachariah
Joshua b March 10, 1646
Mary
Caleb
Sarah

Early History of Rowley - pgs. 24 & 25

2 Caleb Boynton son of William Boynton and Elizabeth Jackson was born February 7, 1650 in Rowley. He married in Newbury, June 24, 1672, Mary Moore of Newbury. His home was in Ipswich, near the Rowley line, and he is styled, "Ipswich Caleb Boynton" in Rowley church records. He joined the Rowley Church July 2, 1676 and died about 1695 or 6. He disposed of his real estate by deeds to various persons, a few years before his death. Essex Deeds 10-85 and 11-3.

3 Caleb Boynton, Jr., born in Ipswich, November 24, 1685, married Christian Parsons, they resided in York, Maine. They were married about 1710 and had eight children as follows:

	William	born 1712
4	Rachael	born 1715	m Joseph Decker *
	John	born 1718
	Joshua	born 1720
	Elizabeth	born 1723	m John Gray *
	Caleb	born 1726
	Ann	born 1727	m Amasa Delano *
	Hepzibah	born 1731	m William Hilton *

BOYNTON (Cont'd.)

The above list from a letter of Robert Parsons dated September 25, 1955 (10 Londenderry Road, Marblehead, Mass.)

* The marriages thus marked were taken from Christian Boynton's will. She mentions the name of the husbands in the three latter cases, but for Rachael she only says Rachael Decker. We know however, that Joseph Decker's wife was Rachael as proved by signature on property he sold in Portsmouth after he moved to Maine.

No record has yet been found indicating when the Boyntons moved to Maine, but the will of Christian Boynton, widow, of Pownalboro, throws much light on the subject. This will is shown in W. D. Paterson's book entitled, "Lincoln County Probate Records", pages 68 and 69. The author states that it is unrecorded and recent inquiry at the Probate Court in Wiscasset fails to find any information on the subject.

The will reads in part as follows: "Give to grandchildren, the children of my son John Boynton (deceased) viz to Joshua Boynton of Falmouth, Cumberland County, Maine, mariner, 3 shillings; to John Boynton of Pownalboro, aforesaid, 3 shillings; to Betty Gray, wife of John Gray, aforesaid, of Pownalboro, 3 shillings; to Sarah Boynton of Falmouth, aforesaid, 3 shillings.

"To William Boynton 1/4 part of the remaining part of my personal estate.

"To grandchildren, the children of my daughter, Rachael Decker (deceased), an other quarter part of my personal estate equally divided.

"To daughter Anne Delano, wife of Amasa Delano, 1/4 part of real estate.

"To daughter Hepsebah Hilton, wife of William Hilton, 1/4 part of remaining personal estate."

Jona Williamson of Pownalboro executor. Will dated 4/5/1766.

MOORE (Moores)

From "William Henry Moore and His Ancestry"
by DeForest

1 Edmund Moore, according to Coffin the historian of Newbury, Massachusetts, arrived in that town in 1640, then aged twenty-six years. In 1648 a deed refers to land sold to Moore. He was a corporal in the town train band. In 1688 he and his son Jonathan were together taxed on the following property:

2 Houses
12 Acres of plow land
20 Acres of meadow
20 Acres of pasture
2 Horses
1 One year old
2 Oxen
3 Cows
4 Three year olds
1 Two year old
18 Sheep
1 Hog

In 1678 he took the oath of allegiance and his age was then given as sixty-four. He died at Newbury, April 19, 1699. His wife Anne died there Jun 7, 1676.

2 Mary Moore, the third child of Edmund and Anne, was born November 30, 1648, at Newbury and married on June 24, 1672, Caleb Boynton, son of William Boynton.

PARSONS

From Bank's "History of York"
Vol. I p. 271

1 John Parsons

"The origin of this settler is unknown. On March 12, 1677-8, he was granted a lot of twelve acres, provided he buy 'the shoemaker's house' and follow the 'trade of a Shoemaker'. On it was a house built by John Knowlton, between Henry Simpson and John Prebel on the north east side of the county road.

"He followed the trade of a shoemaker until his death, which occurred on the Candlemas Day Massacre, 1692. An inventory of his estate showed property to the value of 62-17-00. His widow Elizabeth was granted administration of the estate November 1, 1692, with William Hilton and Thomas Trafton as sureties."

According to Savage Vol. 3, p. 362, John Parson's children were:

John	b July 31, 1677
Elizabeth	b February 9, 1680	m Peter Hinkson
Mary	b December 13, 1682	m Nicholas Cane
Elihu
Rachael
Christian		m Caleb Boynton, Jr.

FOREWORD

The following pages relate to the ancestry of C. Emma Shrives, who was born in Lynn, Mass., the daughter of George Shrives, who was born in England and died in Lynn, Mass., and his wife Hannah Abbie (Mathes) Shrives, who was born in Durham, N. H. and died in Swampscott, Mass.

As previously stated, this record covers only American ancestry; for this reason, the ancestors of George Shrives are not included, while those of his wife are recorded.

Most of the families that make up the ancestry of Hannah Abbie Mathes, settled in Durham, N. H. and surrounding towns, and their descendants for several generations remained in this locality.

The excellent two volume history of Durham, N. H., by Stackpole (with Thompson and with Meserve), has been drawn upon liberally for much of the material included herein, while a great deal of fascinating history of the lives and times of these ancestors included in this remarkable history, has, of necessity, been omitted.

SHRIVES

1 George Shrives, born in England, March 12, 1842, came to this country probably in the 1870's and settled in Lynn, Mass. Before leaving England he learned the shoe making trade and upon arrival here was employed by C. A. Coffin of Lynn, manufacturer of women's shoes, where he soon became foreman of the lasting room.

When Mr. Coffin gave up his shoe factory to form the Thomson-Houston Electric Company (later the General Electric Company), Mr. Shrives opened a small retail shoe store, Mr. Coffin establishing his credit.

George Shrives married Hannah Abbie Mathes, daughter of Jacob and Mehitable (Willey) Mathes of Durham, N. H. He died in Lynn, Mass., October 15, 1908 and Hannah, his wife, died in Swampscott, Mass., May 26, 1936.

Their children were:

2 C. Emma Shrives, born January 5, 1879 married David C. Lash, October 14, 1903.

2 Lizzie May Shrives, born July 18, 1880, married Harry E. Gove.

2 Ann Mehitable Shrives, born July 23, 1882, married Alpheus B. Smith.

MATHEWS, MATHES

From History of Durham, Vol. 2

1 Francis Mathews married November 22, 1622, Thomasine Channon, at Ottery, St. Mary, Devonshire, England, birthplace of the poet Coleridge, and had children baptized there, Elizabeth 27 December, 1623, and Francis 20 February, 1625.

This is doubtless, the Francis Mathews who came over with Capt. John Mason's colony in 1634 and helped to build the mills at Great Works, now South Berwick, Maine. He had a lease, 1 October 1637, of 100 acres for a thousand years, "on the northeast side of the great island, commonly called Musquito Hall". This was at Newcastle, N. H. He signed the Exeter Combination in 1639, though doubtless living then near the mouth of Oyster River, where he bought land of William Beard, next to Darby Field, the same year. Francis Mathews died in 1648. His wife, Thomasine, died in 1690.

2 Capt. Benjamin Mathews was made a freeman 21 June, 1669. His wife, Dorothy, was probably the widow of Oliver Kent and the daughter of Rev. Joseph Hull.

3 Capt. Francis Mathes, married 23 February 1691-2, Ruth Bennett, probably the daughter of Arthur and Mary (Goddard) Bennett. He was Captain in the militia, selectman twenty years, representative to the General Court, assessor and town clerk at various times. He had large grants of land in Rochester and Canterbury, being one of the leaders in the settlement of these towns. He died in 1755.

4 Benjamin Mathes, married 17 December 1716, Abigail, daughter of Capt. Nathaniel and Sarah (Nutter) Hill. He was baptized 12 December 1724 and died 12 December 1755, age 31. His father Francis conveyed, 20 December 1748, homestead to grandchildren Valentine and Abraham.

5 Valentine Mathes born 1720, married Hannah, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth (Smith) Burnham. He died 2 February 1814 in Durham. His wife died 5 September 1812.

6 Valentine Mathes married Dolly, daughter of Capt. Daniel Rogers of Durham. He died 4 April 1801, age 55. She died 30 September 1789.

7 Valentine Mathes born 20 December 1779, married 27 June 1804, Sarah, daughter of Jacob and Abigail (Dam) Crommett, who was born 21 March 1781 and died 5 May 1859. He died 1 July 1850.

8 Jacob Mathes born 18 January 1815, married Mehitable, daughter of Mark and Dorothy (Cilley) Willey of Durham, who was born 12 February 1817 and died 11 May 1884. He died 8 August 1872. He served the town as collector, selectman and representative. By vote of the town he was employed to quarry and cut a stone marked, "Durham, N. H. 1850", to be used in the building of the Washington Monument at Washington, D.C. The stone was quarried from the farm that had been in the possession of the Mathes family since 1640. Their fourth child was Hannah Abbie, born 28 August 1852, who married George Shrives of Lynn, Mass., and died May 26, 1936.

HULL

1 Rev. Joseph Hull seems to have been a highly controversial figure. First we have the following outline from Pope's Pioneers of Mass., page 247. Rev. Joseph Hull, a minister, aged 40, with wife Agnes, aged 25, and several children (including Dorthy, aged 3 and Temperance, aged 9) and 2 servants, came from Weymouth, England, March 20, 1635. He settled in Weymouth, Mass. Removed to Hingham. Removed to Barnstable in 1639. Removed to Yarmouth.

2 Dorothy Hull married Benjamin Mathes.

3 Temperance Hull, sister of Dorothy, married John Bickford.

A more complete picture of Rev. Joseph Hull may be obtained from page 383 of Morrison's "Founding of Harvard College".

"Joseph Hull matriculated in the University of Oxford as a commoner's son from St. Mary Hall, May 22, 1612, aged 17: A.B. 1614; rector Northleigh, Devon, 1621. Sailed from Weymouth, Dorset, as leader of twenty-one Somersetshire families in March 1635. They revived the plantation of Wessaguscus and renamed it Weymouth (Banks Planters of Conn., page 125). Hull was their minister and also deputy to the General Court, 1638-39; that year he went to Barnstable. Excommunicated by Barnstable Church for having accepted a call to Yarmouth without their permission. Thence 1643 to Agamenticus (York, Maine), where his kind reception by the people, as minister, furnished an excuse for exclusion of Maine from the New England Confederacy (Winthrop). Returned to England 1659, Rector of St. Buryan, Cromwell, ejected 1662, returned to New England and in 1662 was minister of Oyster River (Durham, N.H.), whence he was driven by the Quakers. At intervals since 1641, he had preached to the fishermen at the Isles of Shoals (Proc MHS XIV 144n), where he died November 19, 1665. (Libby, Province Records of Maine 1 269-270: Gilbert Nash, Weymouth pp 158-159.)

GODDARD

History of Durham, N. H., Vol. 2, p. 201

1 John Goddard, born about 1608, was one of Capt. John Mason's colonists, who came over in the "Pied Cow", arriving at Newichawannock, or South Berwick, Maine, 13 July 1634, where he aided in erecting a saw mill and grist mill, September 21, 1647. He bought of Joseph Miller land and buildings in Dover on Goddard's Creek, near the shore of Great Bay. His house was a garrison. He was constable of Dover in 1653. He owned a share in Piscassic falls with timber accommodations, which he sold in 1659. He died 12 November 1666. His widow Welthea born about 1621 married John Symonds. John Goddard was a carpenter by trade. He once was fined for being absent from meeting four days and "twice at the Quakers", the fine being forty shillings.

The line of descent is in two directions, one through Mary and the other through Martha.

HILL

History of Durham, N. H. and
Pope's Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire

1 Valentine Hill - There is much that could be written about Valentine Hill, the pioneer. He was a man of importance and apparently of considerable wealth. The following record represents a summary from the two sources given:

He was a merchant of Boston and admitted to the Church April 12, 1636, made freeman May 13, 1640. He was chief owner of a large wharf property in Boston, was a town officer and deacon of the church. His first wife was Frances Freestone, who died in Boston in 1644. For his second wife, he married in 1647 Mary, daughter of Gov. Theophilus Eaton, the Governor of Connecticut. He bought lands in Dover, N. H. and moved there in 1649 where he was actively engaged in town affairs, was assistant to the magistrate 1653, signed petition to General Court 1654 and much more. Governor Eaton's will dated 1656, among others, mentions his daughter "Mary, the wife of Valentine Hill of Boston, late of Piscataqua". His widow Mary married Ezekiel Knight of Wells, Maine and made deposition in 1702, "that Nathaniel Hill was son of her first husband Valentine Hill". Valentine Hill died in 1661.

2 Capt. Nathaniel Hill, born March 1, 1659 at Oyster River (Durham, N. H.). He inherited his father's farm at the Falls (Durham Falls). He was chosen deacon 1718 and was a prominent town officer. He spent the last six months of his life at the residence of his son-in-law, Capt. Benjamin Mathes. He married Sarah, daughter of Anthony and Sarah (Langstaff) Nutter. They had five children.

EATON

Genealogy of the Eaton Families
by Molyneux

1 Theophilus Eaton, son of Richard Eaton, a clergyman in Coventry, England, was born in August 1591. He was a statesman, was English Agent at the Danish Court, and afterward a reputable merchant of London. His first wife died in London, England, after bearing him two children. He married for his second wife, Ann (Lloyd) Yale, widow of Thomas Yale. She was a daughter of George Lloyd, Bishop of Chester.

Theophilus Eaton was wealthy, a man of great mind, a man of gravity and a great reader. He came to America with John Davenport, a distinguished divine of London, his father (Richard Eaton) having been the teacher of John Davenport in his youth. These men desired to found a community of their own, and while efforts were made to keep them in Massachusetts, they set out for the tempting regions of the Connecticut shore. They settled in Quinnipiac, calling the place New Haven. Here he built a house of twenty-seven rooms and furnished it in a truly luxurious fashion. He was the first Governor of New Haven Colony, 1638 to 1657. He died suddenly January 7, 1658, aged 66 years. His will names three children, "Theophilus, Jr., Mary, wife of Valentine Hill of Boston, late of Piscataqua, and Hannah". He mentions his wife and her son Thomas Yale. (This Thomas Yale had a son who accumulated a considerable fortune in India. He left a large sum of money to the college at Saybrook, Connecticut. This College was moved to New Haven and named Yale.)

The foregoing note is recorded as a matter of interest although it will be seen that neither Thomas Yale, nor his son, are our ancestors.

DAVIS

History of Durham, N. H.
Vol. 2, p. 94

1 James Davis, the emigrant, was born in Marlboro, England, 1584. Freeman Newbury, Mass. 1634. In 1640, with others, founded Haverhill, Mass. He lived in the easterly part of the town, was a prominent man, selectman and representative to the General Court. His wife, Cicely _____, born in England, died Haverhill in 1673. He died 1679.

2 Ensign John Davis, born 1623, Marlboro, England. Married 10 December 1646, Jane, daughter of Rev. Joseph and Mary (Johnson) Peasley of Haverhill. About 1653 he removed to Oyster River (Durham, N. H.), where he built a garrison house near Davis Creek, on the north side of the river near its mouth, on land bought of Valentine Hill 14 August 1654. He held many town offices. He died between 1 April 1685 and 25 May 1686, the dates on which his will was made and approved.

DAVIS (Cont'd.)

3 Ensign John Davis, Jr., born 22 August 1651, married 1672 Mary _____, who died 1684; married second, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Burnham. He and his wife and several children were killed in the massacre of 1694, and two daughters were carried as captives to Canada, where Mary Ann remained and became a Sister of Saint Benedict of the Ursuline Convent, Quebec. The other sister, Sarah, returned and married Peter Mason.

PEASLEY

1 Joseph Peasley came from England and settled in Newbury, Mass. He was made freeman in 1642, and removed to Haverhill before 1646. For a time he supplied the place of a minister at Amesbury, as a lay preacher, a "gifted brother" as the church records call him, and occasionally he practiced medicine. His wife's name was Mary. He died in 1661, leaving two children, Joseph and Elizabeth. (History of Haverhill)

From History of Durham, N. H., we learn that the name of Joseph Peasley's wife was Mary Johnson and that in addition to the two children mentioned above, he had a daughter Jane, who on 10 December 1646, married Ensign John Davis, who in 1650 was one of a committee to lay out a boundary between Haverhill and Salisbury. About 1653 he removed to Oyster River (Durham).

CROMMETT

History of Durham, N. H.
Vol. 2, p. 81

1 Philip Crommett taxed in Durham in 1662. Bought land above Hook Island Falls, in Lee. Licensed to keep a ferry at Lamprey River in 1671. In 1673 had a grant of six acres at Lamprey River. He and wife Margaret deeded to son John, 7 June 1710, one half of his farm on the north side of Lamprey River, which had formerly belonged to Hugh Dunn. They had four children, the
2 first of whom was John Crommett, who married Elizabeth, daughter of James and Martha (Goddard) Thomas. John signed a petition with his brother Jeremiah in 1694. John Crommett's will, 22 May 1724, mentions among others, his son, Joshua Crommett, who married Elizabeth Keniston 19 September 1728, and a selectman of Durham 1765 to 1772.
3 Joshua Crommett's will of February 9, 1778, among others, names his son Jacob.

4 Jacob Crommett, born 1739, married in Newington 16 December 1762, Abigail Dam. He was a constable in 1767 and died in June 1800. She died in November 1814. His will
5 of 18 April 1797 mentions, among others, Sarah, born 21 March 1781 and married Valentine Mathes.

6 Jacob Mathes married Mehitable Jane Willey
7 Hannah Abbie Mathes married George Shrives
8 C. Emma Shrives married David C. Lash

DAME

Genealogy Boston and Eastern Massachusetts
Vol. 3, page 1485

This name was originally Dam. The Dams were freeholders in England from the time of Edward VI, and it is claimed that the majority of them became Puritans. It is also asserted that most of them left England during the seventeenth century, some seeking religious liberty in Holland, while others came to America for the same purpose.

1 John Dame or Dam, who belonged to a Cheshire family of the latter name, came to New England in 1633 with a company of colonists under the guidance of Capt. Thomas "Wiggans", and settled in Dover, New Hampshire. John Dame was one of the first to receive a grant of land at the confluence of the Cocheco and Fresh Creek Rivers, known as Dam Point, and he was also allotted land on Great Bay and at Bloody Point (now Newington). In 1675 he was chosen a deacon of the First Parish Church in Dover, and his death occurred January 27, 1690. His will was dated May 19, 1687, and proved March 23, 1693. He married Elizabeth Pomfret, daughter of Lieutenant William Pomfret, and was the father of six children: John, Elizabeth, Mary, William, Susanna and Judith.

2 Sergeant John Dame, eldest child of John and Elizabeth (Pomfret) Dame, was born in Dover in 1637, died in Newington, January 8, 1706. He erected the first house in Newington, which stood on the shore of Great Bay just below what is now called Joshua's Point. It was a garrison house and soldiers were stationed there during the Indian War of 1696-97. In the records he is referred to as Sergeant Dam. His first wife, who was the daughter of Sergeant Hall, bore him one daughter, Abigail, and she married Thomas Starboard. November 9, 1664, Sergeant John Dame married his second wife, Elizabeth Furber, daughter of Lieutenant William Furber. Of this union there were five children: John, who died in infancy, another John, Alice, Deacon Moses of Newington, and Bethiah.

3 John Dame, second child of Sergeant John and Elizabeth (Furber) Dame, was born in Newington, February 23, 1668. He became prominent in civil and religious affairs of his native town, which he represented at the general assembly in Portsmouth, and in 1722 he was one of the proprietors of Rochester. The date of his death does not appear in the records at hand. He married for his first wife Jane Rowe, daughter of Richard Rowe. His second wife was Elizabeth Hoitt and she survived him. His children, all by his first union were: 1. Zebulon, married Abigail Bickford and settled in Rochester. 2. John, married Elizabeth Bickford and remained in Newington. 3. Richard, see next paragraph. 4. Elnathan, a resident of Rochester and a member of Colonel Blanchard's regiment which served at Crown Point in 1758. 5. Eliza, who became the wife of Samuel Rawlins.

4 Richard Dame, third child of John and Jane (Rowe) Dame, born at Newington, in 1699, died May 13, 1776. He was a member of a local military company known as the Rangers (Rogers Rangers), which on several occasions was called into active service by the colonists and in 1759 participated in the destruction of the Indian Village of St. Francis. He was the recipient of special mention in his commander's report for meritorious conduct in the field. On January 24, 1724, he married Elizabeth Leighton, born 1703, died March 19, 1776. They were the parents of seven children: 1. Jonathan. 2. Benjamin, served in the expedition against Crown Point in Colonel Blanchard's regiment with his uncle, Elnathan, and settled in Rochester. 3. Jabez. 4. Colonel Timothy, of Newington, married Elizabeth Pickering and had a son Richard who was the father of the late Hon. Timothy Dame. 5. John. 6. Abigail, married Jacob Crommett. 7. Elizabeth.

Scales History of Dover, N. H., recites an interesting story about a Thomas Damme, who lived to a very great age. He was born in the year 1494 and died in 1648, being then 154 years old. He was buried in the church yard of the Parish of "Church Minshall", near Middlewick, in Cheshire. The register of his death is still there, and is marked around with ink to call attention to his remarkable age. This is a copy of the inscription:

"Thomas Damme of Leighton, Buried ye 20th of ffebbruaire, being of the age of seven score and fourteen, 1648."

(We have no evidence that this was the ancestor of our emigrant John.)

LEIGHTON

Durham, N. H. History
Vol. 2, p. 259

1 Thomas Leighton, born about 1604, died 22 January 1671/2, was among the first settlers at Dover Neck and signed the Dover Combination 1640. He was one of the Selectmen 1647, 1648, and 1657. His will, 20 September 1671, names present wife Joanna and four children.

2 Thomas Leighton inherited the homestead on Royals Cove and Black River. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Hatevil Nutter, of Dover Neck. Died 1677 leaving three children.

3 John Leighton married Sarah _____, and second Elinor, a widow of Nathaniel Meader. His will calls his second wife Elinor (stepmother), to his son Thomas thus proving that Sarah _____, his first wife, was mother of Thomas.

4 Thomas Leighton had a wife Deborah _____ and lived in Newington, N. H. His son, Thomas Jr., gave bond to support him and his wife Deborah. His estate settled in 1744. Deborah survived him. He left seven children.

WILLEY

History of Durham, N. H.
Vol. 2, p. 382

1 Thomas Willey was in possession of a "breadth of land", received probably from Darby Field at Oyster River Point, in 1645. He married Margaret, widow of Stephen Crawford, who had land at Oyster River, and left a daughter, Sarah, who was Sarah Runnels of Portsmouth in 1692, when she sold to her brother, John Willie, all rights to land at Oyster River owned by her father.

2 Thomas Willey had five children, the fourth of which was John Willey, born 1659, married Alice Dorcase _____. Several real estate transfers are recorded, one of which was February 10, 1717, John and Alice Willey and John Willie, Jr. sold land to Francis Mathews. Four children, the first being:

3 John Willie, Jr. had a wife named Christian. Both were admitted to the church at Oyster River 5 April 1724. Their third child, of eight, was

DENBOW

History of Durham, N. H.
Vol. 2, p. 129

1 Salathiel Denbow (Denmore, Dinsmore), according to a deposition made in 1680, was born in 1642. He was rated at Oyster River in 1666 and 1675. He signed the petition of 1669. He owned land on the road from the Falls to Newmarket, near the Long Marsh. He married a daughter of William Roberts and died before 17 May 1714.

2 Richard Denbow married 1705, Mary Bunker. Both were living in 1754. He had a grant of land near his father's place in 1713.

3 Icabod Denbow lived in Lee with wife Mary in 1768. He died in Durham 20 July 1806, aged 86 years, 11 months.

4 Mary Denbow married Robert Willey. She was born in 1766 and died 1843.

5 Mark Willey married Dorothy Cilley
6 Mehitable Jane Willey married Jacob Mathes
7 Hannah Abbie Mathes married George Shrives
8 C. Emma Shrives married David C. Lash

ROBERTS

History of Durham, N. H.
Vol. 2, p. 318

1 William Roberts was fined for mending the stocks May 5, 1643. Perhaps he did a poor job. January 12, 1645, Darby Field conveyed to William Roberts, land at Oyster River, which "was in the use of Thomas Roberts", between land of Mathew Giles and Thomas Stevenson. This shows that he was related to Thomas Roberts of Dover Neck, perhaps a son, not named in the will of Thomas Roberts. On the 6th of the 8th month 1650, he and others were fined for going to the ordinary in the time of meeting, on the 25th of May last. In 1664 he deeded his farm to William Pitman and his oldest son, Ezekiel Pitman. It may be that his daughter Ann had married William Pitman.

William Roberts and Ann Roberts, evidently his wife, gave testimony in 1673. He was killed by the Indians in 1676.

2 His daughter (no name recorded) married Salathiel Denbow.

3 Richard Denbow married Mary Bunker
4 Ichabod Denbow married Mary _____
5 Molly Denbow married Robert Willey
6 Mark Willey married Dorothy Cilley
7 Mehitable Jane Willey married Jacob Mathes
8 Hannah Abbie Mathes married George Shrives

BUNKER

History of Durham, N. H.
Vol. 2, p. 31

1 James Bunker, born about 1628, according to a deposition, is incidently mentioned in the court records of York County in 1648. In 1652 he bought land below Johnson's Creek, on the north side of Oyster River. His will, 14 October 1697, recorded 24 June 1698, names wife, Sarah, and three sons,

2 James, married Anne Thomas, daughter of James and Martha (Goddard) Thomas. He married second, Martha Downes. James Bunker had the homestead and his 236 acres were divided, 15 May 1759, among seven surviving children.

3 Mary, the first child of James and Anne, married about 1705, Richard Denbow.
